Caillaux Offers His Proposal Of Debt Terms

At Initial Session Which Lasted an Hour This Morning—Commissioners Would Not Discuss Proposal—Mellon's Speech Welcoming Minister and Commissioners.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Sept. 24.—Around a great, oblong table in the treasury, where other nations have funded their war debts, the American and French debt commissioners met for an hour today and formally opened the negotiations that are expected to result in France's repaying to the United States the approximate $4,000,000,000 borrowed during the war.

It is understood that Joseph Caillaux minister of finance, laid before the American commission his tentative proposal of terms for payment of the debt, although no public announcement to this effect was made.

The tentative proposals of M. Caillaux are understood to have been submitted in writing, in the form of a memorandum, which contained also an exposition of France's fiscal and economic situation. Neither the French nor American commissioners would discuss it.

At the end of an hour, however, the initial conference broke up and it was announced that the American commission would meet singly this afternoon, presumably to consider M. Caillaux proposals and that another joint meeting of the two commissions would be held tomorrow morning.

France Desires To Pay Debt.

The negotiations were opened with a simple statement from M. Caillaux of his country's desire to meet her obligation to the United States.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon replied on behalf of this government. He stressed the importance of inviolate agreements between great nations, recognized the burden France has borne, expressed confidence in her ability to meet that burden, and closed his brief remarks with this significant observation:

"We know that this conference opening today may influence greatly the peace of the world, and we, ourselves, cannot escape its repercussions.

"It is our duty to reach with you a conclusion in the estimation of each of our peoples, fair, and in the practicable test of time workable."

The meeting opened at 10 o'clock. After the photographers had been cleared away and the doors closed, M. Caillaux rose at a nod from Secretary Mellon.

Caillaux's Speech.

Facing the American commissioners, he said:

"Gentlemen, I have come from France entrusted by my government to meet the obligation of my country toward the United States.

"Highly appreciated members of our parliament, belonging to all parties, chairmen or reporter of the financial and trade commissions of the upper and lower house, have been so kind as to accompany me.

"Like myself these gentlemen have the greatest desire to reach a settlement.

"We do not forget and no one will ever forget what we owe to America for her splendid work to end victoriously the war, and for the generous help our people received from citizens of the United States, in time of need. We neither forget and we feel sure nobody on this side of the Atlantic forgets the ties knotted between our countries at the end of the 18th century.

"Now, if you wish, we'll go to work as practical men, desirous to come to a settlement satisfactory for all material interests, worthy of the past of the two great nations combined in such a way as to fortify peace and help the economic stabilization of the world."

Mellon's Welcome.

Secretary Mellon's response follows:

"One by one, the world is overcoming the effects of the war which so long affects its termination linger with us.

"The Dawes plan is a forward step toward economic stability in Europe. The reconstruction of devastated areas approaches conclusion; government expenditures are becoming more certain of estimation and more possible of being met through taxation; budgets are approaching equilibrium. There still remain, however, loose ends to be gathered in. War and post war governmental debts in many cases remain unsettled.

"To establish the binding character of an international promise and protect its own citizens, the creditor nation must seek adjustment. To keep good its word, and to give itself time to recover its prosperity, the debtor nation must determine its future liability. No concern can successfully be reorganized in the face of an unfunded demand obligation, so we meet here in council as business men to conclude the one matter which is in controversy between our two countries.

"We were glad to receive the help which France extended to us when we were fighting for our independence and we were eager to make some return in France's own great need.

"After the war is over, but we cannot minimize neither the burden France has borne; nor the difficulties which face her future. Through the ingenuity of re-creating her destroyed productivity, through postponement of reimbursement from a destroyed, her present fiscal situation has been permitted to become impaired. We should make allowance for this condition. France now faces, however, all of the facts under a strong leadership, and with the courage which withstood the assault at Verdun. The condition is not permanent. France will emerge successfully from her difficulties.

"We know that this conference opening today may influence greatly the peace of the world. We ourselves cannot escape its repercussions. We feel therefore, the great responsibility resting upon us. It is our duty to reach with you a conclusion in the estimation of each of our peoples fair; in the practical test of time, workable. In these constructive attitudes of the representatives of the two countries a solution will come.

"Mr. Minister and gentlemen, I welcome you."

The American commission remained in session after the French had left the treasury for discussion of some of the smaller details owed by European nations. Czcho Slovakia, Roumania and Latvia, all of which are now to be pressed to settlement. The Czechs are sending a debt commission to Washington next month.

Another Loan, Says French Press

Will Result From Debt Settlement With United States—Midi Says America Has Too Many Dollars and Failure To Make Loans Will Result In Gold Inflation.

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Paris, Sept. 24.—The open suggestion that a debt settlement with the United States will enable France to float another big loan in America was made here today with the arrival of Finance Minister Caillaux in Washington to open debt funding negotiations.

Most of the morning papers refrained from comment on the debt situation pending the publication of the American reaction to M. Caillaux's funding plan, but there was an under current of enthusiasm in view of reports that France was likely to receive better terms than Great Britain in conference at Washington.

The Midi was most outspoken in connection with a new loan, declaring that "even if Caillaux does not show enthusiasm for a loan, certainly American manifests a strong desire to loan us as much as $400,000,000."

Opposition to the stringent American debt-collecting policy was renewed in some quarters, Saint Real in Gaulois asserting, that the "cascade of German, English, French and Italian debts into the American treasury will not only result in a crashing burden to Europe for sixty years, but will constitute a material moral menace to the United States in the same manner as gold-glutted Rome was an easy prey of the Barbarians."

Along the same line, Midi said that "America has too many dollars," and that failure to make loans to foreign countries will result in "gold inflation which will boost prices abnormally and stimulate speculation, making gold an economic and social peril."

Lucien Chassaigne, writing in the Journal, dropped a hint that there were no absolute guarantees that a debt adjustment would be reached at Washington and said that Caillaux should not be "dazzled by the mirage of a $400,000,000 loan.

"France's economic position is satisfactory," he declared. "We have a favorable trade balance. What reprisals could the United States take toward us if the American government is not satisfied with the debt funding arrangements."

BRITISH WILL GRANT NEW RULER RECOGNITION.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Sept. 24.—The succession of Sir Hari Singh to the throne of Kashmir and Jammu must have the formal recognition of the British government, it was pointed out in official circles here today.

The feeling against Singh for his adventures in London and Paris has aroused opposition in some quarters, but it was taken for granted that recognition would be granted the new ruler immediately.

INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC CONFERENCE APPROVED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Geneva, Sept. 24.—The League of Nations Assembly today approved the proposal of M. Loucheur, of France for an international economic conference to be held under the auspices of the league.

The United States and Germany will be invited to participate in the conference.

The date of the conference will be fixed by the League Council meeting in Madrid in December.

THE DUCK HUNTING SEASON IS OPEN

The duck hunting season opened today and many local sportsmen are expected to take the trail in pursuit of this elusive bird. The season also opens for wild geese, brant, wilson snipe and jack snipe. On account of the warm weather which has prevailed, few ducks have been coming south. It will take a couple of cold snaps to start them on their southern trip.

Anderson Debts to League Uncertain

But Anti-Saloon League Refutes His Charges of Financial Injustice—Findings of Certified Public Accountants Show Claims Unsupported by Any Proof.

Arthur J. Davis, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New York, on Wednesday sent the following statement to the press of the nation and the clergy of New York state:

Ever since the conviction of William H. Anderson the management of the Anti-Saloon League of New York, made up the board of directors, who represent the dry co-operating churches of the state, and of Bishop Adna W. Leonard and myself, who are the executive and administrative heads of the organization, has exhausted every possible means to be more than fair in all its relations with Mr. Anderson.

Mr. Anderson has claimed, and apparently does claim, that the Anti-Saloon League owes him money. The board of directors, desiring to deal justly with him and at the same time faithfully to discharge its stewardship with respect to contributions intrusted to it, asked Mr. Anderson for a statement of his claims supported by such receipts, vouchers, etc., or copies of them as would afford a legal and accounting basis for a recognition and payment of the claims. Mr. Anderson sent the board a memorandum of amounts claimed but refused any evidence or proof of the claims.

Would Not Meet Committee.

The board made another effort to arrive at the provable amount of Mr. Anderson's claims—it invited him to meet with a committee of the board appointed for the purpose. Members of this committee traveled all the way across the state to fill an appointment with Mr. Anderson but he failed to meet them although he was within a few yards of the place of meeting at the time of meeting.

Mr. Anderson has carefully avoided any judicial determination of his claims by the courts, and the board of directors, being denied any material and usable assistance by Mr. Anderson, and in spite of his impatience with the board which sometimes has seemed almost to ill-will, took what was apparently the most practical means of arriving at some conclusion concerning the status of the financial relations between Mr. Anderson and the League. The board retained a firm of certified public accountants to examine all the books and records covering all financial transactions between the League and Mr. Anderson for the entire period of the empolyment of Mr. Anderson by the League. The auditors reported back to the board of directors as follows:

What Auditors Found.

"We have examined the books of the Anti-Saloon League of New York from January 1st, 1914, to June 30, 1925, and submit our report dated July 28th, 1925, covering transactions with William H. Anderson but because of the confused condition of the records with respect to transactions in the earlier years and the possibility of duplication in payments, we are unable to state what amount, if any, may be due from or to William H. Anderson."

The carefully arrived at conclusion of the auditors, who have had every scrap of available material, cannot conceivably mean anything else than that these experts, because of the confusion of the records while they were under Mr. Anderson's control and because of the possibility that he has already received payment for the same thing more than once, are unable to say whether the League owes Mr. Anderson money or Mr. Anderson owes the League money.

Further than this simple statement of fact by the Anti-Saloon League, there seems to be no reason for comment.

(Signed)

ARTHUR J. DAVIS,
State Superintendent, Anti-Saloon League of New York.

Anderson Wants $45,000.

The statement made by Superintendent Davis was in answer to an appeal issued by Anderson in which he asked for contributions of $45,000 to pay his personal debts so he could "give undivided attention to the dry Protestant fight which is yet to come." His personal indebtedness $10,000 due on a mortgage on his home.

Anderson's appeal was made in circulars which asked that subscriptions, which it was suggested could range from 50 cents to $100, be sent to "M. M. Odell, Treasurer; temporary address, Lock Box 185, South Station, Yonkers, N. Y." M. M. Odell is Miss Mary M. Odell, who has been Mr. Anderson's secretary for twenty years. She was a witness for him at the trial when he was convicted and sentenced to Sing Sing for forgery.

In the appeal Anderson asserts that this work for the American Prohibition Protestant Patriotic Protective Alliance is hampered by his debts which he said he could not pay because he could not get $45,000 that is due him. The circular was sent out with a letter signed by Anderson on Monday announcing he would speak next Sunday at the Methodist Episcopal Church of Huntington, N. Y., on "A Patriotic American Protestant Protective Alliance Necessary to Save Prohibition."

Sends Blank Checks With Plea.

With the letter and the appeal were sent a blank check on which were printed, "Pay to the order of M. M. Odell, Treasurer," an envelope which bore the words, "Pray with subscription to the five-year campaign which has been permitted to become impaired. We should make allowance for this condition. France now faces, however, all of the facts under a strong leadership, and with the courage which withstood the assault at Verdun. The condition is not permanent. France will emerge successfully from her difficulties.

"We know that this conference opening today may influence greatly the peace of the world. We ourselves cannot escape its repercussions. We feel therefore, the great responsibility resting upon us. It is our duty to reach with you a conclusion in the estimation of each of our peoples fair; in the practical test of time, workable. Times Square Bootleg Ring Was Prospering

One Bootlegger Deposited $200,000 in Bank in a Single Month—Orders for 4,800 Cases of Scotch a Day—Operated as Real Estate Business—A Dozen Arrested Wednesday.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 24.—Startling revelations, showing where one of the arrested bootleggers deposited $200,000 in a bank in a single month and another took orders for 4,800 cases of Scotch in a single day, followed further inquiry by prohibition men today into the actvities of the Times Square bootlegging ring.

Search of the offices of Arthur Kravis in the Knickerbocker Building, revealed a bank book with the $200,000 total deposits for one month and others correspondingly large, also evidence of heavy brokerage accounts and a letter of credit from the National City Bank for $50,000

The so-called firm of Black & Horowitz in the Longacre building, were the operators who showed records of 4,800 cases sold in a single day. The day in question was May 23 last.

According to United States Attorney A. R. Buckner, the monthly revenue of the rum ring probably ran well into several millions of dollars.

Padlock Retailer and Wholesaler.

"There is only way to break up the traffic in New York," he said. "That is to padlock the retailer on the outside and the wholesaler on the inside. We mean to do just that."

Calls for Heavy Deliveries.

Prohibition men in charge of raids on the Black & Horowitz headquarters yesterday declared that the telephone rang almost continuously and that every call demanded heavy deliveries of liquor. All of the callers were told to place their orders in person but only one of them failed to see through this ruse. He was placed under arrest when he entered the office.

"Real Estate Business."

This concern operated as a real estate business in the Longacre building. So did another in the Knickerbocker building, on the doors of both being lettering to that effect. Neither showed any documentary evidence of being engaged in this line of business but both had large maps on the walls, outlining the various ship lanes and harbors along the Atlantic seaboard. Elaborate code books for the ordering of liquor were also uncovered.

In this connection, Buckner said that an investigation of alleged real estate and bond offices in the downtown district soon would be investigated, reports having reached him that many of them masked huge rum moving transactions and others being merely "blind pigs."

Alleged Master Mind Abroad.

He added, that he expected to reach a showdown when Irving Wexler, alias Waxie Gordon, the alleged master mind of the conspiracy, is delivered into custody. He is now bound for Europe but his attorney, Moses Polokoff, has promised his early return.

Search For Ring Leaders.

Armed with warrants for fourteen ring leaders Federal prohibition agents today were scouring Broadway in an effort to round up the remaining principals of what United States Attorney Buckner characterized as one of the biggest bootlegging conspiracies since the dry law became effective. The clean up of the rum ring began yesterday with simultaneous raids on offices in the Knickerbocker and Longacre buildings, the towering shadows of which fall across the heart of the theatre district in Times Square.

"Big Fish" in Europe.

More than a dozen arrests were made but the "big fish" escaped the net. He is alleged to be Irving Wexler, master mind of the conspiracy. According to semi-final advices, Wexler, said to be a man of many aliases, sailed for Europe in a luxurious suite aboard the liner Majestic a week ago.

The raids came as the culmination of several months' investigation of the ring.

After being questioned at prohibition headquarters the men arrested were taken to the federal building and charged with conspiracy.

Held In $3,000 Bail.

Wexler's alleged lieutenants, who gave their names as Max Greenberg, Charles Kramer, Abbott Ross and Leonard Dresdner were held in $3,000 bail each. Others held in bail were Samuel Rappaport, John Kramer, Charles Dank, Samuel Guttierman, Michael Horowitz, Morris Greenberg, Frank Murphy, Jacob Klein and Fred Corlando.

Others Named in Conspiracy.

Others named in the conspiracy complaint, for whom the raiders are still searching, are named as Ben and Barney Gordon, "One Shulz" Harry Miller, Morris Christianson, James Cameron, John Sobel, Arthur and Jerome Frank, Herman Levine and Charles and John Follebek.

Need for Nurses Is Increasing

Dr. O'Meara Tells District Nurses' Association That the Most Successful Nurses Really Take Personal Interest in Their Patients—Advocates Group Nursing.

District No. 11, of the New York State Nurses' Association held their largest quarterly meeting since the organization of the district at the nurses' home of the Benedictine Hospital, Tuesday afternoon, September 22. The district was well represented from Middletown, Newburgh, Kingston City and the Benedictine Hospital.

During the afternoon Dr. O'Meara gave a very interesting address. After the meeting very dainty refreshments were served through the hospitality of the Sisters and graduate nurses of the Benedictine Hospital.

Dr. O'Meara's Address.

I am deeply appreciative of the honor of being asked to address you today. The time allotted to me, however, is so short that I can only hope to touch upon a few more or less important points for your consideration.

The profession of nursing has come to occupy a most important place in our modern civilization. Today there is a greater call for the properly trained nurse than ever before. There is an ever increasing demand for hospital floor nurses, nurse instructors, superintendent of nurses, visiting nurses, especially for T B. and also in the field of preventative medicine generally. Industrial and manufacturing establishments are employing nurses more and more.

As you know, the call for private nurses is increasing steadily. And then as nursing has progressed, there has grown up a demand for administrators in hospitals, and for teachers.

No place is closed to the nurse. She goes to the palace and the hovel, into schools and factories, and has come to be an every day necessity.

To quote from the report of the committee on nursing of the Medical Society of the State of New York. The present demand for nurses is tremendous, arising partly from necessity, but in no mean proportion, from one of our greatest faults, a love of luxury. The absorption of the supply of nurses by the rich, and too often by those who can ill afford it when their cases do not require a "special," is a common event in hospital practice. Under the present system of exclusive use of a nurses' whole time by an individual case, it is doubtful if it were ever possible to fully satisfy the demand. A more intelligent and efficient disposal of our present supply of nurses would go far toward solving the problem of dearth. This can be accomplished, partly at least, by group nursing, and by the medical and nursing profession frowning upon the use of valuable nurses on simple and uncomplicated cases. The employment of trained attendants in this type of cases should be encouraged.

Group nursing would help in my opinion then to solve some difficulties due to the shortage of nurses. This form of nursing could be so arranged that no injustice would be done to either the patient or nurse. I would like to add too that group nursing has the sanction of many of the far sighted members of your profession.

One hears the objection on part of some nurses that by taking care of more than one patient, another nurse may be deprived of a case. But this view is a selfish one and unworthy of the nursing profession.

There has been a marked advance in training schools during the past few years. Living conditions for pupil nurses are now much better than formerly. Most training schools have separate homes for pupil nurses. Laboratories are provided for demonstrations, reception rooms and libraries are in use, professional instructors are employed. With all those improvements let us not forget that under the old regime some of the best nurses the country has ever seen have been graduated. In the midst of all those advanced methods of scientific training, let us remember as Florence Nightingale said, that in nursing you have to do with living bodies and no less living minds. In other words, the nurse must have an understanding heart, and Miss Hefner, a graduate nurse of Iowa says, the nurse above all people needs feeling; the finer her feelings, the better service she can give, for the true nurse feels the needs of her patients, she cares.

A short time ago I was called to East Kingston to see a patient suffering from an acute abdominal condition. She told me of her experience in a hospital. She had a special nurse, and she said the nurse was a good one. "Understood her business," as she put it but she was cold. She spoke sharply to the patient, made little slighting remarks, and was generally impatient. The patient will never forget that.

While abroad this year, I had an opportunity to study at close range hospital and medical work especially in many of the large European cities especially in London, Edinburg, Glasgow, Dublin, Belfast and Paris. In my opinion, our nurses in this country compare most favorably with any abroad. In fact it seemed to many of the people in our party that the graduate nurses of this country occupy a higher plane. I might say in passing that one of the hospitals were of great interest to all of us, large clinics

High Tension Wire Kills Two Men at Shipyard

Barge Captain and Assistant Meet Instant Death When Steel Cable Attached to Barge Derrick Touches High Power Wire at Dwyer Shipyard—Only One Man Aboard Escapes Electric Shock.

Captain William Hamburger of Weehawken, N. J., of the barge J. M Coogan, and Francis Whalen of DeWitt street were instantly killed and Burton Kline of No. 21 Post street is in the Benedictine Hospital badly injured but expected to recover, as the result of the rope-covered steel cable on the derrick on the barge coming into contact with one of the high tension wires of the Kingston Gas & Electric Company leading from the main land to the Island Dock, on Wednesday afternoon. Several other men on the barge also received shocks at the same time.

As nearly as can be learned the men on the barge Gerstell were pulling that barge out to allow the barge Coogan to dock and unload some cement at the Lenehan boatyard on the Rondout creek.

On the barge Coogan were Captain Hamburger, Whalen and Kline who stood on the deck about halfway between the stern of the barge and the engine house amidships. Daniel Madden was in the engine room while Barney Breitzhoefer of South Rondout and James Leach of Wilbur were in the hold of the barge. At the stern stood William Cannon who had hold of a rope, pulling the barge forward.

Amidship in the center of the barge is the large central mast which supports the two arms of the derrick so that the barge may be loaded or unloaded from either end. As the barge was moved the steel cable on the forward mast touched the high tension wire and the electric current of 13,000 volts ran along the cable to the sternmast, near where the three men, Hamburger, Whalen and Kline, stood.

Shock Hurled Men Overboard.

As the electric current shot down the sternmast there was a vivid flash and it is thought that the current jumped from the cable to the men. Hamburger and Whalen were hurled overboard and Kline was knocked to the deck of the barge.

Captain Olsen was standing on the deck of the barge Gerstell at the time. He jumped to the deck of the Coogan and picked up Kline who was halfway overboard and pulled him back toward the deck. As he did so Olsen lost his grip and Kline was again falling overboard when Olsen grasped him again and pulled him to the deck. As Olsen grasped Kline the second time he received a shock of electricity from Kline's body which burned a big blister on Olsen's hand where he had hold of Kline.

All Except One Shocked.

Madden in the engine house on the deck of the barge also received a shock from the electricity, but not a severe one, and was knocked down.

Bleitzhofer and Leach, who were in the hold of the barge, also were shocked but not severely.

The only man on the Coogan who was not shocked was Cannon, who stood on the stern, hauling on the rope to pull the barge into the dock.

Men who were nearby rushed to help and hauled Hamburg and Whalen from the water and placed their bodies on the dock. Dr. Frank L. Eastman was called and the electric company notified. A pulmotor was used on Hamburg and Whalen but it was evident that both had been electrocuted and were dead before they fell from the deck of the barge into the water.

The deck rail of the barge was also found burned slightly in spots near where Hamburg, Whalen and Kline had been standing.

The steel cable which came in contact the high tension wire was nearly burned through, an investigation later disclosed.

It was found that Hamburg and Whalen were burned about the neck, face, ear, arms, fingers, abdomen and legs. Kline was also badly burned about the body and is suffering greatly from the shock.

Kline Expected to Recover.

At the Benedictine Hospital today it was stated that Kline's condition was favorable and that he was expected to recover.

Those Who Were Killed.

Captain Hamburg was 24 years old and I survived by his wife, his father, William Hamburg of Jersey City, two sisters, Mrs. William Ballesbe and Mrs. Edward Williams of Jersey City, and two brothers, John of Weehawken and George of Jersey City. The body was taken in charge by Undertaker Leo V. Crotau.

Whalen, who was 18 years old, was a son of Dennis and Mary O'Neil Whalen and is survived by three sisters, Catherine, wife of John McLean, Marie, wife of Policeman John Schick, and Sarah Whalen and two brothers, Kenneth Whalen of this city and James Whalen of Waltham, Mass.

Fahnestock Saved One Life.

As soon as William M. Mills of the Island Dock shipyard was informed of the accident he sent a hurry call to the Kingston Gas & Electric Company for the pulmotor which was used on all three men. Hamburg and Whalen were both dead, but it was used successfully on Kline and revived him sufficiently so he could be removed to the hospital where he is expected to recover.

Both the men who were killed and also those injured have been employed by Dwyer Brothers of this city, owners of the barges Coogan and Gerstell and the Lenehan boatyard.

Will of Illinois Man Gives $50,000 for Spiritualist House and Library.

Leroy, Ill.—They have broken ground here for a $50,000 church without any parishioners. There will be $25,000 expended for furnishings and extras. A pulpit for the preacher and seats for the communicants, but there will be no people. This house of worship will be dedicated on March 1, 1926.

The court has ruled that the structure must be built. It was provided for in the will of J. T. Crumbaugh, an eccentric farmer of this community. He died in 1905, leaving a will which plainly stipulated that the income from 1,100 acres of the richest land in McLean county should be set aside forever and be used solely for the construction of the church and also a public library to be erected here in Leroy. After sufficient funds accrued to pay the cost of construction, then the annual income from the land was to be devoted to the maintenance of the two institutions.

Relatives Contest Will.

Relatives ignored by the testator immediately instituted suit to have the document set aside, alleging undue influence, incompetency and various other reasons. The litigation was carried on for a number of years and ran the gamut of the various courts from the lowest to the highest. The lower court declared the will invalid but the Supreme court set aside this finding and held that the will should stand. A new suit was filed in the Circuit court and again the plaintiffs won and the case was taken up. Again the upper tribunal decided for the will. For the third time, the relatives presented the issues in a new form in the Circuit court and a jury decided for them, but on the appeal the Supreme court refused to recede from its original findings and insisted that Crumbaugh was entirely rational and sane when he made the will and was a man of excellent judgment, prudence and forethought.

Heirs Give Up Battle.

After three successive knockouts the disappointed heirs decided that they were up against a stone wall and the litigation ended. The defense of the will by the executor cost the estate $60,000 in attorneys and court fees and this had to be raised by the sale of property of various kinds. The litigation and resultant expense has delayed action upon the church and library, as it was necessary to accumulate sufficient funds to justify letting the contract. The fund is now ample and the contract has been let.

Crumbaugh and his wife were formerly Universalists, but five years before the former's death he became interested in spiritualism and joined that sect. He believed with sincerity that he could converse with departed friends and spiritualistic mediums took advantage of this belief and arranged numerous seances at his home. The Crumbaughs became the parents of a child that lived two months. It was the fancy of the father that his child became an adult spirit and was daily seeking to communicate with him. He engaged a portrait painter to place upon canvas a replica of the son as he would likely appear at man's estate had he been permitted to live. This imaginary portrait in oil was hung upon the wall of the Crumbaugh homestead and became a shrine at which the father daily worshiped, while with the co-operation of the mediums he believed that he was conversing with this child.

$20,000 for Maintenance.

Opponents of the will stressed this point in the effort to prove Crumbaugh of unsound mind, but it failed to carry any weight with the Supreme court. There was little surprise when the will was read, to learn that his fortune, estimated at $250,000, had been left to found and support a Spiritualist church and a library.

When Crumbaugh was alive there was a small group of neighbors who entertained the same faith, but all are gone and today, it is asserted, there is not a single believer in spiritualism in this community. Realizing the folly of building a church without a leader or congregation, the trustees conceived the idea of combining the church and library and utilizing one-half for an auditorium and the other half for the storage of books and also a reading room.

The court ruled that this dual structure did not conflict with the will, and, accordingly, plans were drawn for the combination church and library. There will be a seance room where mediums may seek to communicate with the spirits, while there will be an auditorium seating several hundred people, suitable for meetings of Spiritualists or others.

The joint building will be 120 feet in length and 63 feet in width. There will be an income of $30,000 per annum for the support and maintenance of the structure.

The Leroy library has probably the richest endowment and the largest annual income of any similar institution in the smaller cities of the United States. The will stipulates that the land must not be sold and that the income must be used exclusively for the maintenance of the two institutions. With ample funds the institution can be made of tremendous educational value to the community it serves and will likely be classed as a leader in library efficiency in the United States.

SOUND WAVES OF BRAIN PICKED UP BY RADIO

Professor Says He Heard Signals From Persons Shut Up in Insulated Cabinet.

Paris.—Sound waves from a human brain have been picked up by a radio receiver on a four to ten meter wave length.

The experiment is described by Prof. Ferdinando Cazzamali, head of the department of neurology and psychiatry at the University of Milan, in an article prepared for the forthcoming issue of Revue de Metaphysique and reviewed by Le Matin.

As a result Professor Cazzamali foresees the transmission of sound waves from one brain to another.

He says he operated with highly excited persons or those suffering from nervous diseases as well as the noted Italian medium, Signore Maggi. The patient was shut up in a perfectly insulated cabinet. The sounds he heard through the receiver ranged from signals akin to ordinary wireless signals, to whistling to soft violin or cello notes.

Similar results were obtained, he declares, from persons under hypnosis. In every case, however, the emanations stopped where the subject resumed a normal and peaceful frame of mind.

Professor Cazzamali says he is led to believe that the waves sent out from the brain of one person under certain conditions might be picked up by the brain of another person, under similar nervous, mental or hypnotic stress.

Find Skeletons of Eight Jap Sacrifice Victims

Tokyo.—Considerable interest is attached to the recent discovery beneath the corner stones of the double bridge (main entrance to the imperial palace) of eight human skeletons. Most of the skeletons were found upright about twelve feet below the bed of the palace moat, which is undergoing repair work necessitated by the earthquake of 1922.

The theory of some Japanese scientists is that the skeletons are the remains of persons who, several centuries past, offered themselves as "human pillars" for the immortalization of the corner stones used in construction Edo castle.

The tradition of the "human pillars" is an old one in Japan. In the past age it was believed that if human beings were buried alive beneath the corner stones of great structures, the gods would accord permanent strength and solidity to the foundations, and, in addition, those who thus sacrificed themselves would become immortal. It was considered that those chosen as "human pillars" were greatly honored. They were buried alive in a standing position.

Teacher Says Oil, Prayers and Books Brought Wealth

Chicago.—A romance of the triple tincture of oil, education and religion was disclosed at the University of Chicago. A. G. Koenig, once a poor teacher, who struck oil in Texas, has resumed his study of chemistry at the University of Chicago.

He started his course in 1917, but lack of funds caused him to abandon it. In 1921, when he had saved enough to produce a small income, he made two pledges.

One, that he would give one-fifth of his earnings to the churches and humanity, and the other that he would continue in the teaching profession as the best field of human service.

He began teaching at Mexia, where he made an investment in land that has a gas well which under his analysis showed a gasoline content. A well was sunk, oil was found, and his yearly income increased in six months to $100,000. The same year he gave $20,000 to education and charity.

Koenig says prayer harmonizes with scientific thought. He reconciles modern science and religion, saying there are spiritual laws which transcend material things and remain outside the pale of analysis.

Millions of Wills

Almost at the moment that Waterloo bridge yielded to the strain of river traffic its splendid neighbor, Somerset house, is reaching the point of repletion. It is getting too full for comfort. The storage space in its vast vaults grows perceptibly smaller, and the finding of other accommodation is receiving the attention of the board of works.

In dusty vaults the volumes and indexes of births, marriages and deaths dating from the year 1837 are piled seven feet high. There are more than 130,000,000 names in these books. Apart from these registers there are some millions of copies of wills in the vaults, and on payment of a shilling any will can be inspected.

CATHERINE CALVERT

Sir William Joynson Hicks, Home Secretary of Great Britain, has intimated his delight that the United States has barred Shapurji Saklatvala, Communist Member of Parliament. Ruth Tabor, known in Chicago as "Silver Dollar" Tabor, daughter of a former United States Senator from Colorado, died mysteriously of burns. A realty broker has been held pending an inquiry. Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League, declares a compromise impossible on the prohibition law. Catherine Calvert, favorite of the stage and screen, widow of Paul Armstrong, the playwright, is to be the bride of Col. G. A. Carruthers, wealthy war veteran, of Montreal.

All This Worry Is Baseless

Talk about overcrowding the world is nonsense. On a conservative estimate there are enough unsold building lots laid out in the United States at this writing to accommodate 300,000,000 people, with plenty of purchasable acreage for allotments just beyond.—Miami Tribune.

Named From Philistines

The name "Palestine" is derived from the Hebrew "Peleseth," meaning the land of the Philistines. It was first applied only to the southwest part of that country extending along the coast of the Mediterranean, and was first used in an extended sense by the Greeks.

INTERSTATE BRIDGE DEADLOCK

It would be unfortunate if the plan to open the Philadelphia-Camden bridge over the Delaware river on July 4, 1926, should be held up by the controversy between the Pennsylvania and New Jersey authorities The managers of the Philadelphia exposition are naturally dismayed by the vote of the New Jersey Bridge Commission against letting any more contracts until the right to charge tolls has been recognized. Pennsylvania wants a free bridge and New Jersey wants a toll bridge. Majority sentiment in his state is said to support Governor Pinchot in opposing tolls, and a like majority in New Jersey is said to stand behind Governor Silzer in demanding them.

Each side to the controversy can claim to have been misled, for while New Jersey approved the bond issue on the understanding that tolls would relieve distant counties from paying for what will give them little benefit, the Philadelphia City Council appropriated its share of the cost upon official assurance from Harrisburg that the bridge would be free. Governor Pinchot declares that he will stand by the recent act of the Pennsylvania legislature prohibiting the collection of tolls, and Governor Silzer is equally determined that tolls shall be collected. If there is no break in this deadlock, the case will go to the Supreme Court and meanwhile there will be heavy maintenance costs of an idle and unremunerative bridge. Obviously there should have been clear understanding and complete agreement between the two states from the outset, as was the case when New York and New Jersey agreed to levy tolls for twenty years to pay for the vehicular tunnel under the Hudson river. The present deadlock is a warning to other states contemplating interstate construction.

LAND SPECULATION.

Florida's real estate boom seems to have fired the imagination of promoters in other states and filled them with dreams of easy money. In not a few states there is demand for the appropriation of funds for national publicity purposes and the adoption of Florida's popular law with reference to inheritance taxes. Arkansas, for example, appears to be yearning to be broadcasted as the "wonder state" even without the assistance of orange groves and alligators But a Hot Springs correspondent concludes his report of the excitement with the following unenthusiastic observations: "Everywhere come stories from the furthermost hamlets, conservative towns and metropolitan cities of farmers vacating their land; professional men giving up their practeices, and merchants selling out their stocks—fearful lest they reach Florida too late for the boom. They need not worry. The boom will continue just as long as new capital is available to make real estate sales, and then what? History repeats itself."

Then—the deluge? Not quite, but the last purchasers of Florida land at excessive rates are likely to regret that they did not get rid of their holdings before the boom subsided. Those who bought only to sell promptly at large profit will enjoy substantial gains, but the later possessors who look in vain for eager buyers at the prices asked will be an unhappy lot. For the rush of ready purchasers at inflation prices can not go on indefinitely. There has always been an end of speculation of this sort because of the lack of enough credulity to make it permanent. Already purchasers of Florida lands at excessive rates would do well to be content with modest profits if such a policy will enable them to unload overnight.

A London department store has announced that by its "scientific use of line, pattern, color and cut" fat women can be camouflaged with complete success. That ought to attract the custom of the band of ponderous women crooks Scotland Yard is now trailing, known in the London underworld as "The Forty Elephants."

Germany has been invited to send a representative to confer with the representatives of England and France in drafting the terms of the security pact—which calls to mind that Germany once joined in a security pact for Belgium and later on repudiated it as a mere scrap of paper.

Except on farms horses are now little used, but dogs are still widely serviceable possessions. It has been announced that special rates will be made for burglar insurance in cases where dogs are kept.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

A NEW WORD.

Henry Ford tells the world that the worst thing for an engine is too much fuel.

Chauncey DePew tells the world that the worst thing for the body is likewise too much fuel, too much food. He points out that the trouble with the North American is that food of all kinds is easier to obtain than in any other part of the world. A man in ordinary circumstances can yet foods from every clime. The result is that he sits right down to enjoy his food, its taste, its quality, and even its quantity at times The result is that people are what he calls "food drunk" due to excess of waste matter with which their body is clogged.

A man can be drunk with alcohol and not be himself mentally and physically Knowing this he abstains from alcohol, or else indulges when it will not interfere with his business pursuits.

However a man drunk with food doesn't know he is drunk, nor does he even suspect that he is ever drunk with too much food. And yet this overindulgence in food effects his mentality and his physical ability just as surely as any alcoholic drink.

For instance an overindulgence in food at noon means that mentally he is "sunk" for an hour or two in the afternoon, where an ordinary lunch or meal would leave him effective for his work. Physically he feels that sitting down or lying down is about the best thing on earth after a heavy meal. But of course this is not the worst part of the food drunk. This great quantity of food has to be handled by the body. It needs a certain quantity of food to keep up the animal heat, and the balance for the work or exercise that is taken. It doesn't want or need any more. Now your big eater by taking in more than is necessary simply gives the digestive apparatus that much more unnecessary work, and the organs that get rid of wastes likewise have so much to do that they do their work imperfectly. The result is that the poisons which develop from these waste matters are absorbed into the blood. It is called constipation. It can rightly be given Chauncey DePew's name of food drunkenness.

And as one well known educator points out regarding this individual, he is not normal. He is not really responsible for his actions, mentally, morally, or physically.

POPE'S CRUSADE AGAINST IMMODEST DRESS WINS.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rome, Sept. 24.—Pope Pius' crusade against immodest dress among women is bearing fruit all over Italy.

Zealous members of the Roman Catholic faith have appointed themselves as executors of the Pope's decree, and have inaugurated a species of censorship at the doors of many churches, with the result that scantily dressed women have had uncomfortable experiences.

The Archbishop of Florence issued a proclamation to be posted on the doors of every church in Florence, summoning the faithful to watch that no woman dressed immodestly should enter the churches.

Two young women, both in sleeveless, low-necked white frocks, attempted to enter one of the churches and were immediately pounced upon by the self-constituted dress censors, who pushed them into a corner, where they had to remain until the end of the service. The sacristan then approached them and commented on the immodesty of their dresses, and, the girls answering him rudely, were hissed by a large crowd which had assembled outside the church.

Firestone

Double the Mileage at Half the Cost

Only a few years ago a 32 x 4 cord tire listed over $50.00. Today, you can buy the highest quality 32 x 4 tire—a Firestone Gum-Dipped Cord—for about $26.00

Last spring crude rubber cost tire makers around 40 cents a pound. Today, it is over 90 cents a pound.

It was not so long ago that 7,500 miles represented the average life of a cord tire, while today, 15,000 miles—and more—is only the usual performance for a Firestone Gum-Dipped Cord.

Due to large, concentrated production, specialized machinery and simplified factory methods, together with economical distribution, Firestone is able to keep tire prices low—no matter where crude rubber prices go.

And, because of special Firestone processes, chief among which is Gum-Dipping, motorists are getting thousands of extra miles by using Gum-Dipped Cords.

Gum-Dipping is an exclusive method used by Firestone. It is an extra process, carried out in special Gum-Dipping plants, after which the cords are put through the usual calendering machines. Gum-Dipping insulates and impregnates every fiber of every cord with rubber, and practically eliminates internal friction and heat and builds strength and endurance into the tire.

In the day-in and day-out service of taxicab, bus and truck operators—on the cars of hundreds of thousands of motorists everywhere—Firestone Full-Size Gum-Dipped Cords are giving unheard-of mileage, dependability and satisfaction.

The Mark of Quality

Get ready for the coming months of slippery pavements and bad roads. Assure yourself of greater safety, comfort and economy by equipping now with Firestone Gum-Dipped Balloons.

One Thought At a Time

By Arthur Frederick Sheldon.

THE SECOND PERIOD OF EDUCATION—PARENTAL.

The parental period of education begins the day the child is born. Its strongest influence is from that day until the child is ready to go to school.

In the home environment the child's mind is being either correctly nourished or else it is being poisoned. The child is also being guided to the saying and doing of constructive things, thus exercising constructive powers, or else consciously or unconsciously he is being guided to the exercise of destructive powers through the saying and doing of destructive things.

The child's education in the scientific meaning of that term is always well begun before he enters the school period of life.

The scientific significance of the old statement that "as the twig is bent, the tree is inclined" is not fully appreciated by millions of parents. Every parent is a teacher. Some are most excellent teachers. Others are very poor teachers indeed.

Every parent is teaching his child or children every day both by word and by deed. The under-privileged boy and girl of today is not the one who has to hustle while yet young. It is he or she who is sheltered and protected from doing useful things. Like all good things this can be overdone and the child's life be made miserable through drudgery.

But there is more danger in the non-use of constructive powers than there is in the dis-use of them through idleness. It is true that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," but it is also true that all play and no work is liable to make Jack anything but a useful citizen when the time comes that he must take his place to do his share of the world's work.

No one on earth can avoid the law of personal responsibility, and constructive powers, which developed enable one to fulfill that natural law, simply cannot develop without use.

Youth is the most plastic period. it is then that the constructive powers are most easily developed through use. Each and every parent should bear in mind the fact that behind the thing said and done is the thought and the feeling of the child.

Thought plus feeling are the cause of effects which take the form of words spoken and written and deeds done. The thought and feeling of either child or adult is the fountain. The words and the deeds constitute the waters of the river of life flowing from the fountain of thought and feeling.

As the source, so the stream.

Self-discipline is one of nature's basic essentials for development. The little child undisciplined by the teacher-parent before reaching the age of personal responsibility is very much more than likely to lack the power of disciplining himself.

A pessimist has said that "today the children of the average home are running the mother, the mother is running the father and we are all going to hell together."

Possibly he has over-stated the case, but let us be careful.

EMILY BRONTE.

(Wuthering Heights.)

Emily Bronte never had a lover as far as human chronicles can be relied on, yet her story "Wuthering Heights" "No such power, passion, fury of love has ever been seen since Byron died," says one cold critic of this book of passion written by one without personal experience in the fields of passion—such was the genius of Emily Bronte—sister of Charlotte Bronte, the celebrated author of "Jane Eyre." She wrote but one novel and a small book of verses and died of consumption in her early thirties, at the lonely little parsonage in bleak Yorkshire, where she and her sister lived.

WATERWAYS.

The first convention of the International Deep Waterways Association was held at Cleveland 30 years ago today, September 24, 1925, when the movement for the improvement of the waterways connecting the Great Lakes and the Seaboard was inaugurated. The association was the outgrowth of a previous meeting at Toronto. As a result of association's recommendations the governments of the United States and Canada appointed a joint commission to investigate the matter.

Since then the building of new canals and the improvement of existing canals has added vastly to the transportation facilities on the Great Lakes.

SIR WILLIAM JONES.

The science of comparative religion may be said to have had its beginning 141 years ago today, September 24, 1784, when Sir William Jones organized the Asiatic Society in Calcutta.

The work started by this society has worked a revolution in human knowledge, especially in the domain of theology and philogy.

By the scientific of the Sanskrit it was found that many of the features of all modern religions have apparently had a common origin, and that the same is true of many of the languages, laws and customs of modern and apparently diverse races. The students of the Sanskrit found that the Aryan race was at one time confined to the vicinity of the Caspian, in Asia and spread thence to Greece, Italy and northern and western Europe, and to India, the tribes that remained being the ancestors of the modern Persians. The same inquiries also revolutionized the views previously held regarding the origin of languages.

HIGH WOODS.

High Woods, Sept. 24.—Jerry Short of Long Island City is spending his vacation at his mother's, Mrs. E. C. Short.

Mr. and Mrs. Kulenwind have returned from New York where they attended the funeral of their uncle, John Paipe.

The Rev. A. V. S. Wallace of Flatbush occupied the pulpit Sunday and gave an excellent sermon from the text 1 Peter 1:16. He also gave a short address to the adult class in the Sunday school. On September 27th the sacrament of holy baptism will be administered to all who desire it.

Alex Pandrick will have an auction September 29th as he intends to remove to New York. The farm will also be sold in the afternoon. The house is large enough to accommodate several boarders.

Willard Braby spent the week end with his parents here. After spending some time in town he will be in Newburgh.

Mrs. Wilson Ackerman and Mrs. Henry Kulenwind were guests of Mrs. E. Van Gaasbeck in Saugerties Wednesday.

THE AFRICAN LION

"Tell me your story," said Billie Brownie, who had gone to the zoo to pay a call on the African Lion.

Billie Brownie, as you know, was given permission some time ago by Mother Nature to go and talk to any of the members of her family he wished to call on.

He was given the power, too, to understand their different languages, and he used to hear their stories and translate them into language others could understand, and sent out word of his trips and his adventures and what he had heard.

They were always anxious to hear the result of his trips back in Fairyland and Brownieland where they used to gather about and hear what he had to say.

It was always an eager lot of fairies and brownies and gnomes and elves who gathered about when Billie Brownie came back from a trip.

"Yes, pray do tell me your story," he said again to the African Lion.

"Roar, roar," said the African Lion. "I will tell you my story.

"Roaring to me is like laughing to people.

"It keeps me cheerful. It makes me feel gay. It makes me feel like eating and it makes me feel like eating more!

"Sometimes I roar because I am mad, and sometimes because I am glad.

"But anyone ought to be able to tell one roar from the other. My roars are different just as people speak differently when they are cross from when they are pleasant and cheery.

"In my days back in Africa I used to walk with my head down low, never looking up unless I was suddenly startled.

"Sometimes I walked with some of my friends, sometimes with my mate.

"Yes," Said the African Lion.

Sometimes the Mrs. Lions all walked together and sometimes the Mr. Lions all walked together."

"You changed about," nodded Billie Brownie.

"Yes," said the African Lion.

"If meat was scarce," he continued, "we would have attacked anything which came our way!

"Oh, when meat was scarce, we were dangerous."

"Oh," shuddered Billie Brownie.

"Well, it's not scarce now. And you're all right anyway."

"Good," smiled Billie Brownie. "I feel greatly relieved, I do."

"We used to have such a fine way of doing when we were free," the African Lion continued.

"We would each roar in turn, and when one had to stop roaring to get his breath, another would continue with another roar, which sounded all like one great long roar.

"Oh, such days, such nights! Such freedom! Such hunting! Such roaring!"

But Billie Brownie hastily put on his invisible robe for people were coming into the lion house now.

"I must hurry away," said Billie Brownie. "Thank you for your story. I know my friends will be interested hearing it."

"Good-by," said the African Lion. "You aren't a bad little chap."

The African Lion did not talk any more. The lion house in the zoo was now filled with people.

They were listening to him now as he began to roar to see that he was still in practice. They had heard his voice and had not heard what he had been saying, but he had attracted them to the lion house.

The other lions understood that he was thinking of the days of freedom and they began to think of them, too, and then they began to roar, one lion after the other roared.

So from one end of the lion house to the other every lion was roaring.

As one took breath, the other roared even louder to make up for the one who was short of breath for the moment.

And they acted just as they did when they were free as far as their roars were concerned, for they were all thinking of the wild days which now were over.

But they had not left their voices behind them.

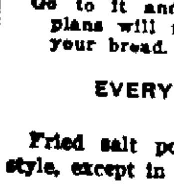
The KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Of what shall a man be proud if he is not proud of his friends? —Stevenson.
Go to it and do it. Beautiful plans will never put sugar on your bread.

EVERYDAY DISHES



Fried salt pork has gone out of style, except in farm homes, where it is served at its best. A few slices of good fat—and a steak of lean (pork) cut into half-inch slices and fried in its own fat until crisp and brown, then the gravy thickened with flour and well-browned—a cupful or more of milk added and the gravy is ready to serve with the pork and nicely baked potatoes. Such a dinner will be found appetizing and agreeable once in a while on a cool day. A coleslaw will be good to serve with such a dinner. Shred the cabbage and serve with a hot boiled dressing poured over it.

Popovers.—Beat two eggs until very light, add gradually seven-eighths of a cupful of milk, a cupful of flour, a half-teaspoonful of salt; beat all together ten minutes with an egg beater, then add half a teaspoonful of melted butter. If skim milk is used add a teaspoonful of butter.

Cream of Tomato Soup.—Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, add three and a half tablespoonfuls of flour and stir until smooth; add a teaspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of chopped onion, then a pint of canned tomatoes, mixing all. Add soda and onion, using a fourth of a teaspoonful of soda. Reheat, then strain and pour this, after slightly cooling, into a cupful and a half of milk. Reheat and serve hot. Do not let the soup boil.

Coffee Cup.—To a pint of strong coffee, strained through a cloth, add one-third of a teaspoonful of almond flavoring and heat to the boiling point in a double boiler. Add two beaten egg yolks, two tablespoonfuls of cream and two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Stir until it thickens to a custard, remove and cool, pour into a serving pitcher with a pint of sweetened ice-cold whipped cream, a quart bottle of charged water and a pint of shaved ice. Serve in tall glasses, place a little shaved ice in each, then some coffee, then twice the quantity of charged water, and on top the whipped cream.

SANDWICH IS A MEAL, LONDON JUDGE RULES.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Sept. 24.—Settling an age-old controversy, Sir Chartres Biron, chief magistrate of London, has decided that a sandwich constitutes a meal.

In a charge brought against the Queen's Hotel, Leicester Square, for selling liquor after legal hours, Detective Sergeant Goddard said that on two occasions when he visited the hotel after 11 p. m. he asked for three double whiskies and one ginger ale. (It should be added that the London police, although not very successful in other ways, are wonderful when investigating the sale of drink.)

Eliciting the fact that the charges also included attendance at a cabaret show, the magistrate ruled that the sandwiches constituted a sufficient meal to justify the serving of liquor.

Bovine Obstinacy

Just what a cow finds to eat on a paved highway is more than the average motorist can figure out, but still the cows persist in taking up the center of the road just for the sake of hearing the horns blow for them to step aside, it would seem.

"Jardin de Paris" To Be Reproduced

Famous Corner of French Capital Will be Faithfully Reproduced for Philadelphia Sesquicentennial Visitors—Opera Series Arranged.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Philadelphia, Sept. 24.—A corner of Paris, the Mecca of the continental tourist and the home of milady's fashion, will be transported to the Sesquicentennial International Exposition.

The feature will be known as the "Jardin de Paris," in which this enchanting garden of the French capital will be reproduced with all its beautiful decoratons, its unique constructions, its novel performances, its varied colored illuminations, its entertaining dances, its celebrated cuisine, its trees, flowers and original stage acts and its world-famed music.

The entrance will be a duplicate of the Porte Monumentale, or main entrance to the Exposition Universalle at Paris, 1900, flanked on either side of an artistic electrically illuminated column. In the center of the garden a band stand will be daily occupied by a celebrated French band, in concert programs. Special performances, chants and dances will be given on a platform surrounding the stands on all sides.

Diners Entertained.

The main stage will be located in the farther end of the "Jardin" and will be completely equipped for entre acts, special novelties and comiques. On each side of the stage will be situated decorated boxes. The dining tables will be arranged directly in front of the stage.

A shop where articles of French manufacture, such as perfumes, soaps, ornaments and jewelry, may be purchased will adjoin the boxes.

"The Rocky Road to Dublin," famed in romantic Irish history and the theme for rollicking Irish ballads, will lead to the Irish village on the "Gladway."

The jaunting car method of transportation in Ireland in 1776, and still in vogue, will be a means of conveyance to the village.

Opera Series Arranged.

A series of operatic performances in the Sesquicentennial Exposition Stadium seating 100,000 has been arranged by the Philadelphia Civic Opera Company as an outstanding feature of the Exposition's music program. Italian and French operas will be included in the repertoire, which will cover a wide range, and there will be an orchestra of one hundred picked musicians, led by a conductor of international reputation. Amplifiers will enable everyone in the vast auditorium to hear perfectly each note and each word.

GAY YOUNG BLADE OF 86 HALED TO COURT AS SHEIK.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Liverpool, Sept. 24.—Alfred Howard, aged 86, is suffering for the frolics of his old age. His wife brought him before the police magistrate on a charge of striking her with a broom, inflicting bruises and cuts. She also complained that he gave away his army pension to his girl friends.

"He is awful with the women," she said. "He gives one of them presents of my clothes. He has also threatened to stuff me up the chimney and set fire to me."

In his defense Alfred said that his wife, Sarah, who is only 79, had become impossible since she came into her old age pension. She wanted to live "independent like," and made his life a misery with her tongue. The magistrate rather sympathized with Alfred. "Try to nag him less in the future," he told Sarah, and bound the old man over to be of good behavior for twelve months.

GIRL GAINED 7 POUNDS NINE YEARS AN INVALID

That's just what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets did for the Babcock Girl—and is doing as much for tens of thousands of thin, underweight, weak and discouraged people all over America.

These sugar coated, pleasant to take tablets should be given to children instead of the vile stomach upsetting oil itself—they surely do help the frail, delicate little ones and 60 tablets cost but 60 cents at any druggist anywhere in America.

Read this letter if you have a child that needs to gain health and strength.

"My little girl was stricken with infantile paralysis when she was 5 months old and was an invalid for 9 years—when I saw an ad in the paper that McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets would built up wasted tissues. I bought a box and she gained very slowly at first and after taking eight boxes, she gained seven pounds. Thanks to McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, after trying almost everything else on the market. She is on the road to recovery and goes to school every day." Mrs. L. Babcock, Appleton, Wis.

Imitations of McCoy's may be offered but be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine and if after thirty days' treatment you are not delighted with results—get your money back.

Use of Velvet in New Fall Clothes

Contrasting or Harmonizing Colors Afford Most Pleasing Effect.

The most important prediction regarding the use of velvet is seen in the advance models, which are especially alluring to the American shopper in Paris, says a fashion writer in the New York Times. While the great fashion events of the year are awaited with intense interest, the trend of style is to be traced in news coming from some of the authoritative ateliers. They are in substance as follows:

The importance which Jenny attaches to materials and details of trimming is evident in the collection of models shown for early fall. In line the tendency is still toward straight effects with greater width achieved in the skirt by plisse panels, aprons, flounces and plaits. Plisses are rather extensively exploited in the simple afternoon frocks for which this house is famous, and this idea is carried out in rep, satin, also in velvet. Wide revers faced with material in contrasting texture and color strike a new note on models shown in the early fall collections of Paris designers. Velvet, ottoman, velours de laine and the crepe satin are shown in groups of advance models. Interesting effects are achieved by the use of velvet, in a contrasting or harmonizing color, as a facing for revers.

A striking example of this is seen in a coat of beige cloth with green velvet facings on the revers. Jenny this season has launched a new mode in the use of bands of velvet ribbon as decoration on frocks of satin, velvet and rep. These appear as collars, cuffs, belts and borders, and in their subtle colorings of old pink, blue green and brique introduce a telling bit of brilliant color into a frock of somber tones. Velvet trimmings are used on evening as well as afternoon frocks.

The circular form is shown in many modes in the latest ensembles. The feeling for uniformity has come to include almost every item of the costume. Now gown, wrap, hat, footwear, gloves, parasol and even smaller things are of one color, or in harmonizing shades. Also the curved line dominates in every feature, making distinctly for grace and beauty. With the varying moods and modes is being shown a circular cape, cut in such a way as to fall in deep points. It has a dash and chic that make it a charming addition to any smart wardrobe. It is now being cut three-quarter length, of fine cloth lined with velvet, forming a garment practically reversible. In an exclusive New York shop this cape is offered in Lanvin green kasha, lined with velvet of a deeper shade.

Tuxedo Coat and White Vest of Crepe de Chine

The United Women's Wear league, sponsors for many charming modes for the school girl, designed the tuxedo coat vest. Note the smartness the tuxedo takes on when worn with a white crepe de chine vest bound with navy blue silk.

Balbriggan Two-Piece Suits for Girls, Women

The little balbriggan two-piece suits and also the jumper frocks of balbriggan have finally settled into their places. They belong to the straight slimness of youth, and although they have done their best to adapt themselves to the curves of older women, they have made the mistake of adapting themselves too well. They reveal the curves too faithfully. Of course it may not be a matter of years, whether or not one can wear the balbriggan two-piece. If a woman is clever enough to retain her girlish figure she may make a new fall investment of a balbriggan and feel that she has selected the appropriate garment for sports or informal wear. Anyone who knows the comfort of jersey will rejoice if a suit of this kind can be added to the fall wardrobe.

Hand-Painted Buckles

Both black shoes and white shoes are improved by the addition of oval or square buckles that have hand-painted floral designs upon them.

Their Way

The Ananias club—"She was absent from the bridge party, but nobody said anything unkind about her," declared the wife, who was speaking of a woman of whom they all were jealous.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

VIVID BLUE AND BLACK, ALSO BISQUE AND BLACK, RANK HIGH.

The color schemes of the season are so many that it seems a difficult task to list them according to their importance. Certainly bright blue and black should be well toward the top of any attempt to rate them by such a method as listing.

The blue and black combination is always improved by gold or silver, and is consequently often so treated. Generally, the blue is the duller surfaced fabric—blue crepe and black satin being natural-born affinities. There are also some vivid King blue frocks, along with purples and reds; but while the color is flattering in combinations, it is more difficult to wear when unrelieved.

Bois de rose, champagne, beige, or bisque, are all used with black, as are also the cool gray greens—again used with gold. It would seem, in short, that combinations of fabric and color have an importance this season greater than before, the usual choice being a dull and shiny surface, and a vivid color with a dark or black one.

Legion Seeking Million in Week

National Commander Makes Final Appeal in American Legion's Endowment Drive — Subscriptions Now $4,000,000 But $1,000,000 is Still Needed.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 24.—(Special)—Asking the state and city committees of the American Legion Endowment Fund for disabled men and the orphans of veterans to raise a million dollars in one week, between this day and September 30, National Commander James A. Drain, of the American Legion, today issued his final appeal in the nation-wide endowment drive

His statement discloses that four million dollars of the five million dollar fund have been subscribed, that more than half the states of the union have raised their proportionate share, but that intensive effort in some fifteen large states is necessary to place the endowment drive "over the top" prior to the national convention of the Legion which opens October 5 at Omaha. "It is our hope," declares the Legion commander, "that we will be able to inform President Coolidge when he arrives at Omaha to address our national convention, that the five million dollar endowment fund, of which he is the national honorary chairman, is an accomplished fact."

The Legion leader explains that throughout the country, the state and local committees are at work, and that the raising of "a million a week" is no impossible task, but perfectly practical if every committee will press its work earnestly to conclusion.

"The raising of this endowment fund and the increasing ability of the Legion to see to the proper care and cure of our disabled comrades and to locate good American homes for every orphan of a veteran is an accomplishment in which the Legion and the thousands of citizens who have helped us may take a just pride," declares Commander Drain. "The Legion official year terminates with the national convention, and the endowment campaign is so nearly complete that by specil effort we may make it a success by the end of this month. I most strongly urge every committee and every worker to expend every energy to that purpose Committees in a score of great cities and in several hundred of smaller communities are ready, I know, to respond to this request. I believe they will put it over with the final million in the final week"

Sister Reveals Puccini Secret

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rome, Sept. 24.—A love secret of Puccini, the composer, who died last year, has been revealed because his sister, Signora Nittetl, is excluded from his will.

Antonio, Puccini's only son and heir, it appears, was born when his mother was legally married to a man named Gemignani, whom she had deserted to follow the composer.

In order to give his surname to Antonio, Puccini was compelled, according to the Italian law, to register the child as born of an unknown mother. There being no divorce in Italy it was only after Signor Gemignani's death that Puccini was able to marry the woman he loved

The love affair complicated Antonio's legal position in such a way that now, under a threat from his aunt to dispute the will he has to choose between denying that his mother is really his and losing the right to inherit $750,000.

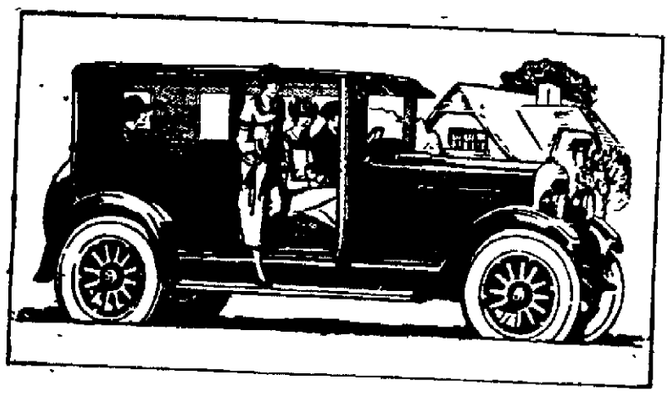
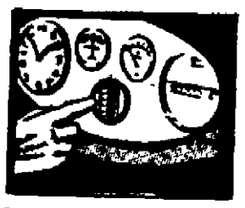
A Bargain In Quality
Fine One-Profit Studebaker Coach
—at a new low price



THIS Standard Six Coach has always been a wonderful value —a leader of the Studebaker line. Yet on August 1st, its previous low price was reduced one hundred dollars.

Today you can buy the same fine car without a single change in equipment or construction—at this new low price which only further emphasizes the Studebaker policy of offering you a "bargain in quality."

Here is a truly fine coach—built throughout from quality materials and careful workmanship. Fine northern white ash and hard maple are used in body construction. We pay a premium to obtain the toughest grades of steel. The upholstery is a durable woolen fabric — the windshield and windows are real plate glass. Extra equipment includes a gasoline gauge, clock, stop light, etc.



Here is a Coach with a gasoline gauge on the dash

According to the rating of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce this Standard Six Coach is the most powerful car of its size and weight. Full-size balloon tires and an especially designed steering mechanism add to its riding and driving ease. A completely machined crankshaft gives perfect engine balance and reduces vibration to a minimum.

Yet this Standard Six Coach sells for no more than competing cars—its low price is made possible by the Studebaker policy of one-profit manufacture.

There are only two cars manufactured on this one-profit basis. Studebaker in the fine car field, and the Ford in the low priced field. Only in these two cases does one company in its own plants make all bodies, all engines, all clutches, steering gears, differentials, springs, gear sets, gray iron castings and drop forgings.

This one-profit policy not only eliminates the extra profits of outside parts and body makers — but it also makes possible unit-built construction. All parts for Studebaker cars are designed, engineered and built as a unit. And being built as a unit they function as a unit—which results in years longer life, scores of thousands of miles of excess transportation, greater riding comfort, lower repair costs and much higher resale value.

But the only way to judge this Standard Six Coach is to see it—to actually sit behind the wheel and drive it through the thick of traffic, over the steepest hills and rough country roads. Then, and only then, can you completely appreciate its amazing power, its velvet smoothness and wonderful riding qualities.

Legion Expects Crowd of 55,000

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Omaha, Sept. 24.—Fifty thousand visitors are expected to come to Omaha in automobiles for the fifth annual American Legion convention to be held here October 5 to 9. At least 8,000 machines will bring them.

All details for the parking of these cars have been ironed out by the committee in charge. Registration and information booths to guide the drivers to the best parking places have been arranged.

Four thousand cars can be taken care of in Omaha's downtown garages and six thousand more in the residential districts, according to members of the committee of which W. B. T Belt, president of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company, is chairman

The slogan "Nobody walks and nobody pays" has been adopted for the time the Legionnaires are in Omaha. When delegates and visitors arrive for the convention they will be met and taken to the registration booths As soon as they have been registered and assigned living quarters they will be taken to their rooms in cars

Parkling places will be circled with wire fences and patrolled by watchmen night and day The committee states that visitors will be able to park their cars for a nominal charge and leave them for a week—coming back to find them in the exact location and condition in which they were left

Every garage in the downtown district has been contracted for by the committee in charge and no garage will raise its prices during the convention. Parking space outside of garages will be provided for a nominal charge, not to exceed ten cents a day, and just enough to pay for the watchmen

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATRES

The management of the Opera House has secured for the balance of the week starting tonight five acts of big vaudeville said to surpass any program that has been seen in Kingston for a long time, opening with Cecil & Van in "Watch Your Step." Riley and Patger a bouquet of Harmony, Josie St. Clair and Boys in a snappy musical skit, Nevins and Stone in High Moments in Comedyland, Power Brothers and Horlick Revue, a modern melange of mirth, beauty and talent, together with "Don Dare Devil" a Blue Streak Western with Jack Hoxie, a colorful picture play in the midst of the mountains and ranches of romantic South America.

"The Ten Commandments" has a theme so great, a sweep so large, and is so elaborately produced that it is one of the small group of films which will never die. As a fine book can be read over and over again, so a picture like this can bee looked at more than once without losing its flavor. Cecil B. De Mille's cinemasterpiece will be shown at the Keeney Theatre for the balance of this week with four shows daily, afternoons at one and three; evenings at seven and nine at a popular scale of prices This production has a cast second to none. The historical part introduces Theodore Roberts, Charles de Roche, Estelle Taylor, Julia Faye, and James Neill, while the modern part of the story is enacted by Richard Dix, Rod Le Rocque, Leatrice Joy, Nita Naldi, Robert Edison, Agnes Ayres, and Edythe Chapman Special mention should be made of Jimmie Connors and his orchestra who are rendering a complete musical score that accompanies the picture.

At the Auditorium today, Gloria Swanson in "Her Love Story," said to be better than any other production in which she has appeared.

THE WHY, WHEN AND WHERE OF FASHIONS.

Indian Blanket Coats.

Fashion often rescues articles from oblivion and just as suddenly drops others into the scrapheap of forgotten things. The vogue today is the coat made from the Indian blanket, hardly ever used in that shape by white folks except by lumberjacks and miners.

Although America gave to the world unknown riches in new plants, some of the domestic animals well known for thousands of years to the world were strangers to the Indian. It is a fact, for instance, that sheep were first introduced to the Zuni, Hopi, and other Pueblo Indians only in 1540, by the Spaniards, although these tribes and others have known for a long time back how to weave blankets principally from cotton

The origin of the beautiful Navajo blankets, which show the best designs, is steeped in revolt and bloodshed. Unable to stand the cruelties of their Spanish oppressors, the Pueblo Indians rose in 1680 and killed some of their tormentors and chased the rest away. Fearful of punishment the Pueblos took to the ancient cliff dwellings of their forefathers While they were comparatively safe there they could take no proper care of their flocks which were gradually stolen by the predatory Navajos. The latter learned the best part of their weaving art from their victims but soon totally outmastered their teachers

The finest specimens of Navajo blankets are of great beauty in color and design. During the last 50 years, however, for the sake of quick gain, these aboriginal masters have commercialized their art so that their blankets of today are in no way comparable to the old masterpieces.

A Lifeless Arm

HEALTH TALK

By Froude & MacKinnon, D's C.

Not always are the effects of an accident visible, nor is their development immediate. That this is true is well illustrated by the case of Mr. Jsralewitz. Knocked from a bicycle in a collision with an auto, it was apparent that his arm was broken.

What was not apparent, and was not learned for many months later, was the fact that the jar of the accident had caused a slight movement of one of the bones of his spine; this bone then pressed upon the nerve leading to the broken arm.

When the broken bone had mended, the arm remained useless, in spite of regular, continued treatment, calculated to restore life to it. It was only when the spinal bone was adjusted back into position by a chiropractor, and the nerve released from pressure, that he recovered the use of his arm.

J. L. MacKINNON, D. C.

ELECTRICITY FAILED— CHIROPRACTIC SUCCEEDS

"My arm, broken as the result of a fall from my bicycle when an auto ran into me, was set at the ——— Hospital. After removal of the cast, I received daily electrical treatments and massage for eight or nine months but the arm remained useless I heard of Chiropractic and decided to investigate After 12 adjustments from a chiropractor, the hospital doctor told me that my arm was now coming along nicely, and I only needed to return twice a week for treatment Nine months of medical treatment failed, but after only 12 days adjusting I have a useful arm and can return to work."—Meyer Jsralewitz, Chiropractics Research Bureau, Statement No. 2105-K.

Our success is due to our policy of never accepting cases that we cannot benefit. We are graduates of the Universal and Palmer Schools of Davenport, Iowa—the world's foremost chiropractic colleges The system of painless adjusting originated by us is acknowledged far superior to any method heretofore in use.

Old Men on Senators' Staff Ready for Series

Johnson, Ruether and Coveleski, All Veterans, Bring Championship to Capital—Harris With Marberry and Ferguson in Relief Roles.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Sept. 24.—When Bucy Harris points his Washington pitching staff at the Pittsburgh Pirates, bearding them in their very lairs in the first two games of the world series, he will be holding up to the baseball universe a staff of fairly old men that caused some sneers at the opening of the championship races that just closed.

"An old men's home," that is what the Washington pitching crew, together with some of its infielders and outfielders, was termed last April.

"They can't possibly repeat with a bunch of 'has-beens' like that," was the derisive comment that was pulled generally and not infrequently around the streets and cigar stands and lunch rooms of Washington—there being few other places of public foregathering here since Volstead got in his horrible work.

They Did Repeat.

But they did repeat, and with their stag of "crumbling pitchers" together with some hair-raising relief work on the part of one particular youngster, Fred Marberry, now having completed his second whole year as a major, participating in 11 games only in 1923.

To start with, Walter Johnson is just a few years shy of 38 years old. He came to the Griffmen in 1917 and has been with them ever since. He holds a variety of odd and sundry baseball records and was last year named as the most valuable American League player. You can't deny that Johnson is no kid. Besides his record of games won this year, he leads his league in batting, although he can't be compared with Sisler and Speaker and Hale and Cochrane, because he hasn't been in nearly so many games. No, Walter is no child, not by a good many kindergartens.

Stanley Coveleskie, a ten-year-man so far as major league activity is concerned, is thirty-four, an age when most pitchers have sapped everything there is out of their arms except the marrow. Covey availed himself of a thirteen straight victories record during the late spring and early summer of the American League race, which incident alone justified his puchase last December by the world's champions.

Ten of those thirteen games he pitched through the entire nine innings, which possibly accounts for the fact that he fell off a bit in his effectiveness during the waning days of the race just closed.

Dutch Ruether, allegedly railroaded out of the National League as an obstreperous boy, has probably been as steadying an influence on the victorious scamper of the Washington entry as any one of its four first line twirlers. Ruether was thirty-two years young on the 17th of September and had won sixteen and lost eight of his 1925 appearances up to the 10th of that month.

Wise old National League managers laughed up their sleeves when Clark Griffith and Bucky Harris fell for Ruether last December and prophesied that he would jump over the traces before July and cause the club no end of embarrassment.

Ruether Made Good.

And just to prove to them that there are two sides to every question, Ruether stepped out and twirled the best ball he has been capable of since 1919 with Cincinnati when he had 19 wins and six defeats. He has been a model of deportment and Pittsburgh will have to have some smart batters indeed to unnerve this Gibraltar of the world's champions. A count of two and three means no more to him than ashes on a cigar. He passes no one purposely and few accidentally.

The fourth member of Washington's main line of pitching defense is Tom Zachary, a southpaw pitcher with nothing at all in the ordinary way of analyzing a pitcher's delivery, but still a deceitful offering that has fooled the best of 'em including the New York Giants in two games last October.

Fred Marberry, prince of relief hurlers, had been in over fifty games in that role up to the time he was forced to take a layoff owing to a sore and overworked arm.

Relief Staff Strong.

In the rapidly approaching world series tilt, the spectators will see the Washington pitchers go to the mound in Ruether, Johnson, Coveleskie, Zachary order, or pretty close to that, with Alex Ferguson standing hard by and Fred Marberry and Win Ballou spoiling to do a little relief stunt.

In a short series, such as the coming one, he expects to do wonders with the combination described above.

THIRD ROUND IN PROFESSIONAL GOLF MATCH.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 24.—Eight of the country's leading professionals squared away today in the third round of the championship tournament of the Professional Golfers' Association at Olympia Fields with the crown that now adorns the head of Walter Hagen of Pasadena, Florida, as their incentive.

Hagen himself, after a somewhat easy 7 and 6 victory over Mike Brady of New York in the second round, was pitted against Leo Diegel of New York.

The other pairs were Billy Melhorn of Chicago against Tom Kerrigan of New York, who yesterday broke the course record for nine holes at Olympia with a 32—three under par; Mortie Dutra of Aberdeen, Washington, against Tommy Armour of New York and John Farrell of New York against Harry Cooper of Dallas, Texas.

Tagging Major League Bases

After a gripping struggle, carrying through the entire nine innings, Wright's perfect throw cut down Durning at the plate for the exit out and the Pirates, beating the Phillies, 2 to 1, were champions for the season of 1925. They were almost mobbed by the celebrating fans. Yde flopped in the ninth when the first three men singled but Sheehan came on to save the day.

Making the Pirates' effort unnecessary, the Giants tossed off two games to the Cardinals 5 to 0 and 5 to 2, the first defeat ruining McGraw's pennant chances.

Braxton, a recruit managed to pull the Yanks through to a 7 to 6 decision over the White Sox, thanks to a rescue act by Shocker.

The Dodgers blithely tossed off their tenth straight, the Cubs winning, 2 to 1.

The Tigers won the ball game from the Red Sox 15 to 1, but lost Fred Haney, who was hit on the head by Ehmke's pitched ball and taken to a hospital suffering from a slight concussion. Ehmke declined to pitch after the accident.

The Braves won two from the Reds, thanks to the pitching of Cooney and Genewich. Scores 5 to 1 and 2 to 1.

Homers by Hale, Welch and Holt played an abiding part in the double victory of the Athletics over the Browns, 6 to 3, and 7 to 3.

Y. M. C. A. Alleys Open October 1

Special attention has been given by the physical and house committees of the Y. M. C. A. to make the alleys in the local association the best set of public alleys in this section of the country.

The alley bed was hand scraped and levelled by the Brunswick-Balk Collender Co. They were then varnished and rubbed down and so are in excellent condition for the opening of the season. The interior of the room has been newly painted in a green and ivory combination which not only adds to the attractiveness of the rooms but also to the lighting effect.

Special new bowling alley lights and shades are being installed. These will not only give more light on the alleys but are so placed that shadows will be eliminated.

The floors, gutters, etc., have been painted and repaired, placing them in first class condition.

New bowling pins and supplies have arrived, thus assuring an adequate supply.

Special bowling contests with prizes will be held on the alleys from time to time, while the season offering of prizes will be as follows:

Highest alley score—Miniature gold bowling ball.

Highest average score—Gold medal (50 or more games).

Highest total score, three games—Gold medal (limited to leagues).

Highest team score—Two sterling silver miniature bowling balls (limited to leagues).

A special opening night prize of a sterling silver bowling medal will be given for the highest score made on the alleys on October 1. Competition for this prize is open to all Y. M. C. A. members and no limit is set on the number of games bowled by an individual.

A mercantile and church bowling league will be organized under the same rules and conditions as were used last year. However, only one set of alleys will be given over to league games. The other set will be held for the use of the general membership of the Y. M. C. A.

The alleys will be open daily from 7 to 10:30 p. m. and on Saturdays from 2 to 5:30 p. m.

Close Physical Department at 'Y'

The physical department of the local Y. M. C. A. will be closed during the week of September 28 to October 3. This closing is made necessary by the fact that the dinners of the corps of workers used in the financial campaign will be held in the gymnasium.

Painting of the swimming pool and repair of plumbing make it necessary to close the shower baths and pool at the same time.

The physical department will open for business immediately following the close of the financial campaign when the regular schedule of gym classes begin.

The physical department committee has installed a new system of lighting in the gymnasium, new basket ball back boards and several other minor improvements which will add greatly towards the full use of the equipment and the convenience and comfort of the membership.

"Y" Boys Prepare For Columbus Day

Five Hours' Basketball Tourney to Be Followed by Banquet and Entertainment and Then a Gym Fest for Employed Boys.

Columbus Day at the Y. M. C. A. for boys is going to be a day long remembered. It is the day of the official opening of the boys' work.

At 1:30 the boys who are in high school or the grade schools and who are members of the "Y" are coming together for a big basketball tourney. For five hours there will be basketball galore and before six o'clock they will know which group of fellows are the best players of the division.

At 6:15 there will be a banquet, short talks, and an entertainer from New York city.

After the entertainment the employed boys will go to the gym floor for a gym fest of their own, and prizes will be awarded to the winners of the events.

The tables and rooms have been put in good condition and the boys are coming more and more into the building to take part in the work.

Archie Ronk, a senior in high school, has been employed by the boys' work committee to assist in the rooms and the work with the boys.

All activities of the boys' division will start on the day following the banquet with the exception of the Hi Y Club which will hold their first meeting on October 7. Addison Schultz is president of this group and expects to have a very successful year with the club. This club is open to all high school students who have the 19 Regents' counts.

The Association hopes that this year there may be organized a Freshman Hi Y Club for the entering men. Plans for this will be announced later.

K. H. S. Eleven To Play Alumni

The Kingston High School eleven will find no easy task on their hands Saturday when they buck up against the strong alumni outfit. The alumni men are a husky lot, practically all of whom have been the Maroon and White mainstay of previous years.

The alumni squad will probably have one or two workouts during the week and no doubt will take the field Saturday with the following lineup: Jimmie Cassidy, center; Leonard and Bill O'Reilly, guards; Earl McLane and Ken Davis, taskles; Joe Hoffman and Vince Rice, ends; "Punk" Vogt, quarterback; Stanley Calvin and Wats Wheeleer, halfbacks and Hasbrouck fullback.

Wednesday's practice at the Athletic Field ended with a scrimmage between the first and second teams and this warfare will likely be continued for the balance of the week. Fred Meehan who played halfback for Dartmouth in '23 has been on the field for several workouts assisting Coach O'Leary in getting the team in shape.

The team will be supplied with all new equipment this season, the uniforms which are of the latest type are the very best in football outfits. The first squadron will receive its uniforms Friday noon.

Among the many spectators on the field Wednesday afternoon giving the football aspirants the once over was Al. Alexander, a star on the Syracuse eleven several years ago. Alexander, who this season is playing professional ball with the Philadelphia "Yellowjackets" which is one of the leading teams in the National Professional Football League offered comments on the local gridders.

A Fixed Race At Aqueduct

Was Charged Wednesday When Vox Populi II Won Steeple Chase—Jockey Club Demands Investigation—Bookmakers Stage Battle.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 24.—Faint rumblings, underground, of scandal at local race tracks came out in the open today after charges of a fixed race were aired and two bookmakers at Aqueduct had come to blows on the clubhouse lawn while women shrieked and men strove to separate the belligerents. The fight occurred after the running of the second race, a steeple chase, at Aqueduct yesterday and the principals of the impromptu bout were Tom Shaw, king of the "bookies" on the lawn and Coley Madden, who makes a book in the clubhouse.

As a result, the Queens County Jockey Club has demanded that the national steeple chase and Hunt Association institute a rigid investigation of the allegation that one of the jockeys was "fixed" and mete out the severest punishment to those, if any, who might have been implicated.

The Shaw-Madden fistic stuffs are said to have begun immediately after the running of the race, a three horse affair involving Conniebert of the Greentree stable, Vox Populi II, and Crest Hill, of the J. H. Lewis stable.

Vox Populi II, an aged gelding, went to the post at a long price and won, going away.

After the numbers were posted, Shaw is said to have sought Madden in the clubhouse.

"I guess you had that one in the bag," Shaw is said to have shouted heatedly at Madden. The latter asked what the other bookie meant.

"Come outside and I'll show you," was the reply, according to witnesses. In a moment, the men were locked in a snarling embrace, while women diners in the club house deserted their tables and fled hysterically to safety. After some minutes, the men were separated and they went their respective ways vowing eternal vendetta.

The cause of their enmity was the running of Crest Hill, on which $7,000 or more of Shaw's money is said to have ridden. Madden is said to have grabbed most of these commissions.

The early betting showed Conniebert the favorite at six to five while Crest Hill was a two to one shot and Vox Populi II was quoted at 13 to 5.

There was little changes in the odds for some time but just before the horses were called to the post, runners darted into the clubhouse, according to the story, and approached their various books. Immediately the price on Crest Hill steadily dropped from two to one until it reached 11 to 10. At the same time, Conniebert's price rose to two to one and that of Vox Populi II to 18 to 5.

It was whispered that Shaw's money had caused the drop in Crest Hill's price and that Madden had taken all he could get.

When the barrier was sprung, Vox Populi II broke in front and never was headed, although observers claimed that the horse was so stiff he had to take some of the hurdles side ways.

The fight and the jockey club's demand for a showdown followed.

Rumors of War Over the Mosul

Arouses English Press Which Charges That Mustapha Kemal Has Moved Divisions to the Mosul —Government Discredits Reports.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Sept. 24.—Sections of the English press are becoming more and more aroused over the danger of war with Turkey over the disputed Mosul territory.

Dispatches were published here today charging that Mustapha Kemal has moved four divisions of the Turkish army to the Mosul border and is bringing up heavy artillery along the Dardanelles.

The newspapers interpret these dispatches as indicative that Turkey does not intend to abide by the League of Nations decision on Mosul if it is against Turkey.

Opposition newspapers are taking advantage of the situation to create an atmosphere of political animosity towards the Baldwin government.

Official circles refuse to be perturbed over the many reports of Turkish preparations for war. The foreign office stated today that it had received no confirmation of reports of Turkish mobilization, and it was stated that the government discredits such reports.

Rum Runners Used a Plane

Seizure of Crippled Hydroplane Off New London Port Yields 100 Cases of Liquor—Coast Guards Watch Both Sea and Air.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New London, Sept. 24.—Embattled hosts of coast guardsmen, struggling to stem the tide of liquor pouring into New England have come across a new addition to the enemy's ranks in the form of a hydroplane which, when seized off this port, yielded one hundred cases of liquor. So the vessel that is at home in air or on water has gone to join the other trophies of the battle against liquor that are ranged in serried ranks along the Thames River wharves here.

New London, as home of the United States Coast Guard Academy, quickly became the base in the anti-liquor war. Several miles straight down the wide Thames from the Coast Guard Academy plant is the entrance to Long Island Sound with Block Island lying just to port as a vessel passes out the harbor.

Find Rum Armada.

Beyond Block Island, sailormen say, lies the most important "rum armada" now in United States waters. While vessels of this fleet are ranged in rows, vessels of the Coast Guard, including formidable torpedo boats, form a long half-moon to the westward, stretching from within Long Island Sound northward and eastward toward Cape Cod.

Testifying the activities of both rum-runners and coast guard men wharfs along the watrefronts here are lined with vessels that once bore liquor. Every available structure on land is filled with bottles, barrels, vats and cans. The overflow is held at New Haven, 50 miles westward, and lately some has been taken into Providence, as many miles by water to the east.

Frequent sales of seized vessels are held here. Often the same boat is seized two or three times in the year. While the crew is held for trial in Federal courts, the boat is put on the auction block and sold for a nominal price. After a while the old familiar lines are spotted running in from the ocean, a destroyer put after her with or without firing a shot, and the boat comes back to New London either with a prize crew aboard, or, in tow, according to her size.

But not until early September hazes lay over the waters down harbor from New London did the seaplane materialize, though coast guardsmen suspected some such craft might be used. Lying on the waters just within the sound like a great disabled bird, the plane was an easy prey to the coast guardsmen. Perhaps the plane will be sold to return to the same trade. And then perhaps some wealthy man will secure the craft and ride it and his hobby at the same time down the water-airway that leads from open ocean to Manhattan.

Meanwhile coast guards are back on the job, this time watching sea and sky with equal care. Presently sea planes may appear in coastguard operation to meet the new threat of the "enemy."

Tetley Talks at Rotary Luncheon

The Rev. J. W. Tetley was the speaker at the Rotary luncheon this week, giving an interesting and instructive common sense talk and at the same time setting a most commendable example of brevity. Inspired by the Sheldon lecture of Tuesday night, Mr. Tetley stressed the importance and inescapable power of law in the industrial, intellectual, physical and spiritual affairs of mankind. Natural laws cannot be bluffed or dodged, he said, and while much that Mr. Shldon tells us we already know, it has gotten to be humdrum and he rouses us to a new sense of consciousness. Jesus Christ was not a dreamer. He was practical. The Golden Rule is not a rule but a statement of a principle and in his obedience to this principle each man makes his own standard. We have certain scapegoats, such as heredity and environment. These are not without influence and when bad they are but handicaps that may be overcome. "Give and it shall be given unto you" is also a statement of law and fact. Unless we invest there can be no dividend. If we invest service to others we will receive service in return.

After closing his address Mr. Tetley cordially invited the Rotarians to attend the Thursday evening prayer meetings in his church if they would sing there as they sang at the luncheon.

Owing to the visit of District Governor Garrity at the first luncheon in October, next week will be observed by the Rotarians as Fire Prevention week, with an address by Chief Murphy.

Hard to Get Couple to Agree on Money

It is largely the "niceness" of middle-class married folk, making them unwilling to discuss "the sordid matter of money," that causes trouble for wage-earning wives, says one of them, writing anonymously in the Woman's Home Companion.

Says the wage-earning wife: "Unexpectedly enough it was that double income which even our old-fashioned relatives had approved that became our chief difficulty. If the economic dependence of women had tyrants on the one hand and cowards on the other, the economic independence of women has its own dangers. Two people, each accustomed to earning his own living, to spending his own income, have a good deal of adjusting to do before they learn how to merge two incomes into one, and until that lesson is learned they flounder in a financial morass."

The solution for the problems of their household, the wage-earning wife continues, came when the husband could bring himself to say, "as he would have said to a brother with whom he was keeping house, or any man friend: 'See here, you're holding out on me. You can't go on buying rugs until you've paid your share for the kitchen ceiling. Shell out.'"

District of Columbia Fines U. S. for Smoke Nuisance

Washington.—The District of Columbia government succeeded in police court in calling the federal government to account for violating the smoke law—a rather unusual proceeding in the face of judicial declarations that the two governments and their laws and regulations must go hand in hand.

Judge McMahon imposed fines of $10 each in three cases of violating the smoke law preferred by the district government against Robert B. Regar, chief clerk of the Post-Office department, for allowing an excessive amount of smoke to issue from the chimneys of the federal postal headquarters. The fines were imposed upon Mr. Regar, not as an individual, but as a representative of the federal government.

MARRY YOUNG, SAY RECTOR, TO AVOID DIVORCE.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Boston, Sept. 24.—Marry young! This is the advice of the Rev. George J. Prescott, rector of the Church of Good Shepherd, South End, who has tied the marriage knot for 800 couples during his fifty-one years as pastor of the church. The Rev. Prescott retires from active church duty soon to give his personal attention to other activities.

He has seen them come and go, the Rev. Prescott says, married them and buried them as well and after all those years he stands pat on the marriage issue as a permanent institution. Dr. Prescott has the longest ministerial record of any clergyman in Massachusetts.

Advises Young Folk.

He advises young folk to marry at an early age, but with the added idea that the uphill struggle be mutual if it is to be a correct union.

"The apartment house is the solution to the problem, he continued. "What with expenses as they are, the inability to have a city house looms blazingly on the horizon. Young folks can't afford it. The small apartment, the box-like flat, the intimacy of tiny living quarters gives more promise to life and adds many millions to the population."

"Nothing wrong with marriage," the rector says. "I've been married twice, so you can see how I stand on it. The individuals who make up the same are at fault. They pull away instead of together."

Dr. Prescott said that adjustment is to marry what steam heating is to an apartment. Not really necessary but terribly comfortable.

Before coming to the Church of Good Shepherd, truly a "little church around the corner," in 1874, he was an assistant preacher at Grace Church, Lawrence. He is chaplain at the McLean Hospital, where he spends much of his time.

SHADY.

Shady, Sept. 24.—Mr. and Mrs. John T. Miller are spending a couple of weeks at Newburgh.

Miss Jane Evans of Brooklyn spent several days at the home of Mrs. William E. Reynolds.

Everett Tingue of Cobleskill was entertained at the home of F. W. Burhans over the week end.

Miss Margaret Reynolds returned home after spending several days with her sister at Poughkeepsie.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald B. Reynolds spent Sunday afternoon and evening with her grandmother, Mrs. N. MacDaniel.

The thimble party given by Mrs. F. W. Burhans on Friday evening was a fine success. The evening was enjoyed by all.

Miss Gertrude Shultis is spending several days in New York.

Mrs. Eugene Hoyt entertained the Missionary Society on Wednesday. They were kept busy quilting.

Quarter Gets Sixty Days.

John Nalentz and Harry Stone were sentenced by Judge Webber at Flatbush, town of Ulster, Wednesday evening to serve 60 days in the penitentiary at Albany, and William Williams and John Corey were sent to the Ulster county jail for sixty days. The quartet were arrested on Tuesday night by West Shore Detective Thiel for the unlawful entering of the car shops of the West Shore Railroad in the north yard by breaking a window.

TELLS OF FLIGHT MADE TO MOROCCO

Army Officer Describes Trip Taken by France's Leaders to War Zone

Washington.—"The recent spectacular journey by airplane of Marshal Petain from France to Morocco to take supreme command of the French forces fighting in that country, and the similar air voyage of Premier Painleve to look into the political aspects of the war, were over one of the most picturesque air routes of southern Europe," says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society.

The bulletin quotes as follows from a communication to the society from Lieut. J. Parker Van Zandt, U. S. Army Air service, who covered this route, starting from Toulouse, France:

"An answering roar from the engines as the throttle was advanced, wheels plowing through the deep dew-laden grass, tail poised for flight—and I was off on what was destined to prove my most memorable air ride in Europe.

Mediterranean Appears.

"The gentle valley of the Garonne lay sleeping under a fleecy sheet of light fog. Like a child's ribbon, the canal lay curled at the base of the furrowed hills, a solemn double row of poplars guarding its banks. The black thread of the railroad now ran close beside it, now struck out boldly across the rich farm land toward where the valley narrowed before the encroaching Pyrenees.

"A half hour passes. We dodge through a winding pass ahead, swing to the east again, and abruptly there opens before us a glorious picture of the breaking day. The walled city of Carcassonne slips by, sharply etched in light and shadow, and the glistening waters of the Mediterranean appear ahead. As we swing by the eastern slopes of the Pyrenees, the clouds that had seemed so black and ominous overhead now appear snow-white, soft, vaporous, streaming south.

A Sun-Baked Land.

"Perpignan lies in a fertile valley at the eastern foot of the Pyrenees, and here we make our first landing, one hour from Toulouse, to pick up the mail from Marseille. The connecting plane has arrived before us with another passenger, a young Frenchman with military clothing samples for his clients among the fonctionnaires at Rabat.

"It is noon and we are approaching Alicante, 8,000 feet above a tangle of rocky slopes bordering the sea. Sun-baked white huts cling precariously to the ridges. Terraces, burnt dry, struggle up the hillsides. On our right the mountains rise sharply pointed, precipitous, gullies and pockets in their bare sides, patches of rough cultivation on their lower slopes. Dried river beds lie parched in the heat of the summer sun.

"On our left the great bowl of the Mediterranean, green to deep indigo-blue along the rocky shore line, silver-gray on the shimmering horizon; a few toy fishing boats motionless on its placid surface.

From Cool Clouds to Heat.

"We leave our cool height and glide down slowly, skim over a fence of rough piled stones, and settle to the earth, kicking up a great cloud of yellow dust behind us, as we taxi to the hangar. What a contrast with the cool green field at Toulouse a few hours earlier! Here the barren, sandy ground seems to settle in heat and the air is thick with suspended dust.

"No time for lunch. A cup of black Spanish coffee while the mail is being transferred to a waiting plane, and we are off, happy to rise quickly above the mantle of dust and breathe the clean air again.

"A snow-clad peak appears, dimly visible above its companions upon the horizon; two hours, and it has passed beneath us and lies indistinguishable among its neighbors, now far to the rear. Thus does air travel obliterate ancient barriers. Tiny white villages, like clustering flights of egrets, begin to dot the great brown slope rising up from the shore.

Europe to Africa in a Flash.

"A valley opens out and Malaga appears, a welcome sight after four hours. It is hot on the ground, and tropical palms, their fronds gray with dust, border the field. In ten minutes we have transferred to a new plane, and with another pilot are off down the coast, the lower contours flattening out as we rise above them.

"Here at last the long Spanish coast ends at the Strait of Gibraltar, culminating in that strange, formidable outthrust of the earth named after a long-dead Moor (Tarik). The wind sweeps through the narrow strait, scattering sudden flashes of white foam in the Mediterranean blue, like fireflies against a twilight sky, while beyond lies Ceuta on the Moorish coast, with the highest peak of its headland, the African 'Pillar of Hercules,' standing out menacing, portentous.

The Riff, Where Spain Bleeds.

"The international port of Tangier beneath our wings, white, flat-roofed houses rising above each other in tiers of cubes, a solitary minaret jutting into the air, a gray line marking the trace of ancient battlements, Portuguese or English.

"To our left lie the Riff hills, where Spain is vainly bleeding herself to death; before us, brown, burnt, and dead, the wide, rolling world of the Bled, the Moroccan veldt; on our right, the restless blue of the Atlantic. To it is the East, bright and shining as a sword, under a pitiless sun.

"The heat at this hour of the day, even at 2,000 feet, is stifling. From my exposed perch on the sack of mail, the blast from the propeller is like that from the opened grate of a furnace; impossible to look westward, toward the burnished sun low on the horizon.

Rabat, the Imperial City.

"I crouch down to find shelter in the shadow of the cockpit, but the oppressive air seeps up and stifles with its stagnant warmth.

"Our pilot descends to a few hundred feet above the Bled, where it is surprisingly cooler. The white-dove-like glitter of an Arab town appears by the blue rim of the Atlantic, the plunging breakers crashing soundlessly at its feet. Then Sale (Salli) of a dazzling whiteness, ancient home of the 'Sally Rovers,' the Rabat-el-Fath, the Imperial city, on the banks of the Bu Regreg, winding down to meet the blue of the ocean under high cliffs, through a brown-velvet valley.

"As we glide down over the Residency, the sun slips at last behind the low, banked clouds on the horizon, in gray mist and secret splashes of fire, and the red cliffs across 'the Father of Glittering' are reflected like a flame in the river."

American-Chinese Use Bears' Feet as Charms

Olympia, Wash.—Chinese faith in the curative qualities of portions of a bear's anatomy has resulted in several unique assignments for government hunters operating in this state, says Dr. Glenn R. Bach, field leader for the federal bureau of the biological survey in the Washington district.

Recently a Chinese resident of Washington, D. C., requested the feet of a bear, while some months ago another asked for a bear's gall bladder. In the case of the gall bladder the information was volunteered that it was wanted as a health charm.

Although the supposed curative qualities of bears' feet were not disclosed, the hunters have been instructed to forward the first set of bruin's feet available to the Olympia office for reshipment to Washington.

French Colonials in Paris

The interest taken by France's colonial subjects in the decorative arts' exposition adds to the picturesque aspect of the crowds daily along the Esplanade des Invalides and in the grand palais in Paris. Swarthy Moroccan chieftains, Algerians, Tunisians, Senegalese, all in native costume, promenade in and out among the booths and pavilions, pausing to inspect with gravity and awe the various displays. Some are there in connection with the exhibits of the French colonies and protectorates, but the exposition authorities say that a far greater number are in the real tourist class, paying their own expenses and following their own programs.

Rum Smugglers Plan Invasion

Treasury Agents Report Rum Runners Mobilize For Attack on Atlantic Coast—New York Money Backing Final Attempt to Unload Surplus Stores.

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Washington, Sept. 24.—Rum smugglers are mobilizing for a heavy attack on the Atlantic Coast, with a promise to thirsty Americans for a merry holiday season, according to information obtained by treasury agents today.

Twenty or more ships are being outfitted at Lunenberg, N. S., the British liquor base, while others are loading at Nassau in the Bahamas, St Pierrie, N. S., Havana, and other foregn whiskey centers

Reports from special investigators who went to Halifax disclose that American money, chiefly from New York, is backing the new smuggling

Rum runners believe the coast guard has relaxed its vigilance off the North Atlantic coast and will not be able to put up a strong resistance against smuggling before the rum patrol is made permanent by congressional action.

One official declared the smugglers will make a final attempt to "cash in" unload their surplus stores of liquor and then get out of business

The word has been passed along the liquor merchants that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon will recommend to congress the appropriation of sufficient funds to create a new and more powerful rum patrol, equipped with sea-going vessels, capable of ending smuggling

Exhausted stocks of liquor in the United States, following the government's drive off the North Atlantic coast have increased prices and promise rich returns to the successful smugglers.

Officials said that the new attack of the rum trust would be met with a sufficient force to make it unprofitable to attempt liquor smuggling

Some fast launches are operating from Long Island and a few cargoes of rum are reported to have reached shore within the last few days Three of four "rummies" are said by officials to be within a short distance of the coast, but all of these are being watched by coast guard craft

About ten to fifteen rum vessels are 100 miles off the North Atlantic coast, according to the treasury.

Need for Nurses Is Increasing

were arranged for us and we were most courteously received every where. Among the hispitals visited in London were Guy and St Bartholomew's, the two oldest in London. They are great rambling stone structures, with six or seven hundred or more beds. The work done there was of a very high order, although there was no better surgical technique than in this country. The operative procedure and medical care of patients seemed to be very much the same as in this country.

In Dublin we visited the famous Rotunda Maternity Hospital which holds the record for the lowest mortality rate of any hospital in the world Doctors came there from the United States, India, China, Japan, England, in fact from all over the world to study the methods employed. We studied their methods closely. In eclampsia and toxic cases generally they give enormous quantities of liquids, glucose, soda bicarbonate, etc Rigid ascepsis is maintained and a doctor stands by gowned and gloved ready to act in case of any emergency

May I remind you that the nursing profession, having its origin in the nursing sisterhoods, is an old and honorable one It has come down through the centuries with an ever increasing glory, in the service of God and humanity It is therefore incumbent upon us all to see to it that its high ideals shall always be maintained

In conclusion and on behalf of the staff of this institution I wish to extend a most cordial welcome to you all, and to express the hope that we may have the pleasure of welcoming you here many times in the future In this welcome I am sure, I may include the welcome of the sisters, who are doing their part so nobly in this great work

AUTO CRASHED INTO ROOM IN CATSKILL, FOUR INJURED

Three women and a boy were injured, one of them so seriously that it was necessary to send her to the Albany Hospital Tuesday afternoon when a Buick car, owned by Joseph Ernst of Woodhaven, L. Inside in the bas ment were Mrs Josephine Finch, daughter, Miss Jane Finch, Edward B. Dale of Catskill and a boy and girl. They were not aware of the approach of the car and were startled to see the car bearing down upon them from the sidewalk, crashed through the window and all as if they were made of paper and went through the barrier to the basement floor. The car came to rest [illegible] The front of the car was pinned beneath the car. Later Miss Finch was moved to the Albany Hospital, [illegible] injured the most seriously injured

Ancient Peoples Not Really So Backward

Inhabitants of the earth 3,000 years ago were not so backward as one might think, discoveries by members of a joint expedition of the University of Pennsylvania and the British museum to Ur of the Chaldees have shown

Flint blades, about the size of safety razor blades, that were indestructible and never needed honing or sharpening were found. The blades were still as sharp as when used, without holders, by the prehistoric dandies.

A sewerage system in the temple of the Moon God, used to dispose of blood from animals used for sacrifices, revealed many of those today, according to the scientists

Art will be divided equally between the museums. They show that many things thought to be modern inventions were used in Ur of the Chaldees [illegible] years ago [illegible] prove that life then did not differ greatly from ours.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 24.—The general tone of the stock market and the direction of price changes in active stocks was reversed today as profit taking and short selling checked the rise which has been in progress for about three weeks. The bears made an effort to bring this movement to a close, and the indifferent support accorded favorite stocks by the bullish pools made the task a fairly easy one in the first two or three hours, though some good recoveries, particularly in railroad and utility stocks, took place after that time.

That a "thin market" prevails for some of the newly-introduced specialty stocks appears evident from the action of Briggs, which on offerings of 5,000 shares opened about 5 points lower and sold down 6 points to 29 with the bid price for a block of stock only 26 against yesterday's close at 35 and last month's high at 44½.

Conspicuous strength in the tobacco stocks, in a few of the rails, particularly New York Central and Norfolk and Western, in specialty stocks like Fleischmann and Pathe Exchange, the latter introduced to the "big board" today, and a few of the equipment stocks, was in contrast to the reactionary tone of industrial and specialty stocks which have been soaring to higher price levels in recent weeks. The motor stocks held steadily until the fourth hour when heavy selling broke out and prices declined to the lowest level of the present movement.

United States Steel and other leading industrial stocks were also offered in large volume in this period and the whole market assumed a distinctly reactionary tone. American Can's seven point decline to 223½ on a comparatively small volume of trading was a feature of this period.

The funeral of Charles Cherney was held from the funeral parlors at 46 Maiden Lane on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock and thence to the Church of the Immaculate Conception where the Rev. Ignatius Bialdyga officiated assisted by the Rev. Andrew Novajovsky and the Rev. Theodore Jozwiak as deacon and sub-deacon. The interment was in the family plot in Mt. Calvary cemetery. The Rev. Nozajovsky officiated at the grave. The floral offerings were profuse and beautiful. The honorary bearers were Stanley Betley, Paul Celuch, Augustine Hart, Jerry Hart, George May and John Zincs. The six flower girls were Mary Duffy, Helen Celuch, Pauline Salko, Anna Banyo, Anna Hart and Rita Woden. The active pall bearers were members of the National Slavonic Society.

The funeral of Dr. Harold F. Meinhardt was held from his home on Wall street on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The services, which were simple and impressive, were in charge of the Rev. Dr. F. B. Seeley, pastor of the Fair Street Reformed Church. Dr. Seeley paid a fine tribute to Dr. Meinhardt, whom he fully appreciated and called his friend, and whom he counted as having in large measure those rare gifts of kindness, affection, devotion and interest in the well-being of others. Dr. Seeley said he felt the truth of what had been well said, "Blessed is the man who has the gift of making friends," a gift which was Dr. Meinhardt's, for he recognized the true and noble in other lives. Blessed with the influence of a rarely sainted mother, Dr. Meinhardt believed in God and while a man of great usefulness in life and in his chosen profession, he was also a man of sincere devotion to his home. During the services Joseph Reynolds played feelingly at the piano "Lead, Kindly Light" and "Abide With Me." The bearers were Judge James Jenkins, Elva H. Bogart, Arthur G. Carr, Harry R. LeFever, William H. Van Etten and Dr. A. L. Hill. Interment was in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

What Makes Grapes "Wild"?

Robert, the young son of Sheriff Burns of Petersburg, was present during a conversation between his mother and some friends, who were discussing the merits of the wild grape for pies, jelly, etc. With a puzzled expression on his face, he said:

"Mom, what kind of grapes are wild grapes?"

Mother Burns explained to him that wild grapes grew in the woods and were much smaller than "tame" grapes, whereupon Robert again asked:

"Will the wild grapes run away from you when you go after them, and will the tame grapes come to you when you call them?"

It was then that mother realized how utterly futile her attempts to make clear to her son why the wild grape was called "wild."—Indianapolis News.

Why He Likes Knickers

"I've finally decided that knickers are a practical garment for men," declared a golfer. "I wore an old pair today and just before I started out I bought several new balls, tendered a bill in payment and received some silver in change. This I thrust into my pocket. There happened to be a hole in this pocket and when I came in I reached down for the change. It was gone. Now, if I had been wearing long trousers I'd have lost that money. But, since I wore socks outside my knickers, all I had to do was to search the proper sock. And there was my money. That's why I'm so certain that knickers are a very practical garment."

Governor Smith To Visit Kingston

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 24.—Governor Smith will leave Albany by automobile at 3 o'clock this afternoon to speak in Glens Falls tonight on the short ballot constitutional amendment and the grade crossing elimination and state buildings bond issues, to be voted on this fall.

Last night he informed Representative Ogden L. Mills by letter that he would accept his challenge to debate the $100,000,000 buildings bond issue and the debate will take place in Buffalo some time during the week beginning October 19.

It had been proposed to have the debate October 10 in connection with a meeting of the State Association of Real Estate Boards, but that date was impossible for the governor, as he is to be in Kingston then. The next week was also broken up by an engagement October 15 to attend the farewell reception to the volunteer firemen of Wilmington, Delaware.

Where the Milk Goes

What becomes of the oceans of milk produced every year by the 20,000,000 cows being milked in the United States? About 3 per cent of it is wasted. Forty-seven per cent is used manufacturing products, 46 per cent for household products and 4 per cent for feeding calves. Of the manufactured products, creamery butter utilizes about one-fourth of the total production, farm butter about 11 per cent, cheese of all kinds 3.6 per cent, ice cream 3.4 per cent and condensed and evaporated milk 3.7 per cent.—Pathfinder Magazine.

According to Instructions

A sentry in an army camp down South heard footsteps and roared his challenge. From the darkness came the quavering reply:

"Ah's a citizen of de United States wif mah lady friend."

Instructing the colored rookie as to the proper way to challenge, the sentry sent him on his way. A few minutes later a form approached and in answer to the challenge came:

"Ah's de man yo' tol' to say Ah was a frien' of yo' all."—American Legion Weekly.

Boatyard Owner Dies in Brooklyn

Ira S. Bushey, Who With His Son Bought Rice Boatyard Here Two Years Ago, Dead at 63 Years—Prominent in Business and Politics.

Ira S. Bushey, shipbuilder and a leader in Brooklyn politics, and one of the owners of the Rice boatyard in this city, died Tuesday at his home in Bay Ridge of a stroke of paralysis. He was sixty-three years old.

Mr. Bushey was a native of Oswego, beginning work in the shipyards as a young man. He soon began construction work in his own plant and contracts were offered him from the start. For years he operated his shipyards in Staten Island before moving them to Brooklyn. His business activities led him into association with Senator Barth S. Cronin, then political leader of Bay Ridge. During the World War he served on a committee of the Shipping Board.

Mr. Bushey was a member of the Bay Ridge Chamber of Commerce, Dongan Council, Knights of Columbus; the Curtain Club of the Cellar Club of the Brooklyn Lodge of Elks, the Old Colony Club, the Thirteen Club and the Automobile Club of America and treasurer of the Catholic Knights of America.

Four sons, Francis S., Ira Jr., Raymond J. and William T. Bushey, and a daughter, Mrs. Ella M. Fox, survive, with two brothers, Alexander and Albert Bushey, and a sister, Mrs. Cornelius Marks, of Oswego. Mrs. Bushey died in 1915.

The funeral will take place from the home on Saturday, the Elks Club and the Knights of Columbus taking part in the service. A requiem Mass will be said later at the Roman Catholic Church of St. Anselms. Burial will be in Holy Cross Cemetery.

Mr. Bushey and his son two years ago purchased of Senator Jacob Rice his boatyard on the Rondout creek. The yard had not been operated lately but the Busheys were planning shortly to resume operations.

SAFETY ZONE AT ALBANY AVENUE AND BROADWAY

The board of public works has men engaged in erecting a safety zone at Albany avenue and Broadway. This crossing is an exceptionally long one and pedestrians frequently have difficulty in passing when traffic is heavy. Standards are being erected near the center of the crosswalk which will provide a safety zone for pedestrians as well as assist in regulating traffic at this point. The safety zone will be similar to that which was erected some time ago in front of the central post-office building.

Clam Chowder Sale.

The ladies of Circle No. 3 of the Church of the Comforter will serve clam chowder at the parish house Friday. Chowder will be ready at 11:30 o'clock.

"Ask For Dave" News

D. KANTROWITZ, KINGSTON

You are no doubt comfortably seated and quite warm while reading this little bit of news, but to tell the truth, this is sort of "cool" weather information.

It wasn't over a month ago that we went outdoors in the early morning without a sweater or jacket, but now—well, you may do the same thing today but if you didn't mind it, I can't imagine that you were at all comfortable.

Take for instance a buttoned sweater, without a collar, they do come in handy these mornings.

And then again, sometimes it's better to buy a sweater or such instead of buying cough syrup or something on that order.

Then probably you're considering changing to a bit of heavier underwear. Did you ever try our Haines Ribbed Underwear? They are made in union suits and in shirts and drawers. They're just the thing for this Fall weather. Don't forget that we also have all kinds of heavier underwear as Fleece and then Rossi Tivoli Underwear.

But probably all the above doesn't interest you and we'll have to change the topic.

How about that Suit?

Can you realize that we have over a thousand suits in stock and more coming in every day?

Can you realize the fact that a great quantity of suits must be sold in order to carry such a tremendous stock.

But that's it. We have never sold more suits than we are selling today. Our customers come from six counties. Dutchess, Greene, Orange, Sullivan, Delaware and Ulster. And they know that if they buy a suit and are dissatisfied with its wearing qualification—they know that they can come back to Davo's and always get satisfaction, like anything else that is bought in the store; whether it be a pair of fifty cent suspenders or an eighty dollar overcoat.

We are doing such a great business because we use the people right.

And it's the only way that they are used here.

Suits we have at all prices.

We have One Pants Suits and Two Pants Suits and a style for every and any type of man for any age.

And again

Don't forget that our Shoe Department ranks with the biggest in Kingston as far as Sales and Quality are concerned, but as far as Price is concerned, we head them all. Try us.

Remember, never to judge what we have in the store by our window display, as we are really to busy to "dress" these.

Yours,

P. S.—We will be closed on Monday, September 28, because of Holiday.

D. KANTROWITZ.

Bayside Club Here Sunday

Colonials Will Meet a Fast Club Sunday at Fair Grounds—Yankees May Play Here October 11—Locals to Play Out of Town.

Secretary Mullen of the Colonials received a telegram from the Yankee management last Friday stating that this club was going on a barnstorming trip in October and would like to tackle the Colonials during this campaign. Secretary Mullen telephoned Wednesday that it would be favorable with the locals provided the team brought practically its regular line up. As the locals wish to provide the fans with the best brand of baseball possible, Manager Brown and Secretary Mullen will not book the Yankees of only one or two regulars make the trip. If the deal proves favorable, the New York club will be at the Fair Grounds on October 11.

The Bayside Club, a team under the same management as the Jamaica Cardinals, will be in Kingston for a tilt with the Colonials on Sunday. The Baysiders recently emerged the leaders in the Queensbury League of the metropolitan area. The crack club had a successful season, winning 39 games, losing 16 and tieing 4, which is not a bad record for a season's work. On the following Sunday, October 4, the locals will journey to Haverstraw for two battles. If the Yankees are not booked for October 11 another reliable aggregation will be signed for that Sunday. The Colonials will battle away from home on October 18 with the West New York club on the opponent's grounds.

Naturalist Says Luminous Fish Produces Cold Light

New York.—Broadway can be thirty times brighter without the cost of another cent if somebody will find out what happens when one of William Beebe's deep-sea fish switches on its headlights.

Mr. Beebe, author and naturalist, just returned from his search for the Sargasso sea and the Humboldt current, said that he was in the dark concerning the electric power plant of luminous fishes.

"If we knew what happens we'd be billionaires," he said humorously. "The electric bulb is only 8 per cent efficient. The rest of the energy goes into heat. But the luminous fish is 100 per cent efficient. It produces cold light.

"I have a feeling that direct commercial research will not discover the lighting principle. I think some research worker will stumble onto the secret."

There's Not Enough Made

It is said that 80,000,000 pounds of twine are used in Canada to tie up the annual grain harvest, but even this wouldn't be enough to tie on some men's fingers to make them remember to post a letter.

DUMOND RETURNS FROM TRIP DOWN THE YUKON

A recent issue of the Grand Rapids Herald contains a full page interview and numerous illustrations supplied by Frank L. DuMond, curator of Kent Scientific museum, who has just returned from a trip down the Yukon, through the old Canadian northwest to Tanana and then back across country to Fairbanks Mr DuMond is a son of L. E. DuMond of 24 Liberty street, this city. Mr DuMond describes Alaska as a land of opportunity and tells in the interview his various impressions which he received as he travelled through the northern country

The route he took was the route taken by the ninety-eighters as far as Dawson, but under vastly different circumstances. Instead of traveling with dogs and sleds over trackless fields of snow, skirting glaciers, conquering passes, courting death a hundred ways, the trip was made by boat "in as great comfort and safety as you would find in travelling anywhere in America."

Mr DuMond took the inside passage from Skagway to Carcross, so called because in past days the Caribou forded here. From Carcross he took a side trip to the Lake Atlin district with its famous glacier, Llewellyn, and then back to Carcross and from there to White Horse. From White Horse the trip was by boat through the Yukon territory and over into Alaska

During his trip Dr DuMond took over 1,200 pictures which he will use in connection with lectures later

Although advancement will be slow Mr DuMond predicts a brilliant future for Alaska with its wealth of natural resources which include rich mineral deposits and in the southern portion vast forests Mr. DuMond predicts that southern Alaska, where the precipitation is like that of Michigan, can supply half of the wood pulp used in the United States for all time

WOMAN MAGISTRATE IN ATTENDANCE AT EXECUTION

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Glasgow Sept 24—Magistrate Mary Bell the quiet little matron who sentenced him to death, watched the hanging of John Keen today, the first time in English history that a woman was an official witness of an execution. The law requires that the magistrate passing sentence witness the execution and Mrs Bell did not attempt to shirk

After visiting Keen in his cell she witnessed his preparation for the gallows, then accompanied the procession up the scaffold She did not flinch when the trap was sprung

Mrs. Bell shook the hand of Keen as he stood on the gallows and bade him farewell. As soon as the trap had been sprung she walked from the jail to her home for breakfast.

"I made up my mind that, I wouldn't be upset and I wasn't," was her only comment

NEW HAMPSHIRE MEN IN RANKS OF GREAT

Writer Puts Franklin Pierce at Head of List.

The greatest office ever held by a New Hampshire man, and held by him as a resident of New Hampshire, was held by Franklin Pierce. It is something for us to reflect upon that he is one of the few who have gained much renown who gained it as citizens of the state, observes the Manchester Union.

Daniel Webster would, of course, be held as our greatest man, and yet he won his fame in another state and it was Massachusetts, not New Hampshire, that sent him to Washington as a senator. Still, Massachusetts has given him up to us just as it has given up Calvin Coolidge to Vermont. Webster's personal interests remained with us, his love went to New Hampshire, not to Massachusetts.

Franklin Pierce, who was President, was also a military man, possibly looking more like a soldier than being one. His military training was slight, yet he was gallant in action and made a very handsome appearance on horseback, which had a good deal to do with his nomination. The South used to decide who should be nominated by the Democracy, and nomination by that party then was nearly a guarantee of election. The South liked New Hampshire and liked the looks of Pierce. New Hampshire was the one New England state that was popular in the South and was the most popular Northern state. Does anyone in the South think of New Hampshire now? This liking by the South meant much in the way of political patronage for us, we got things no other Northern state could get.

Gen. Lewis Cass of Michigan, who was almost President, was easily the most distinguished soldier who was born in New Hampshire. But his career was made in the West. He remembered little of New Hampshire, the one thing that stood out in his recollection being the fact that he was held in his nurse's arms to see President George Washington ride into Exeter.

Gen. John A. Dix got fame more from some ringing words in the first doubtful days of the Civil war than for exploits in battle. He said a stirring thing at a right time, pronouncing a slogan at a period when that highland Scotch word was not used in our country. "If any man starts to haul down the American flag, shoot him on the spot." People who have autos stolen might well wish General Dix were here and in charge of that problem. It would cease to be a problem after two and a half auto thieves had been shot. Two auto thieves shot to death and a third one filled with birdshot would stop auto stealing for a long time.

Salmon P. Chase was another of our great men who developed elsewhere. Of late years, to somewhat make up for the important men we have contributed to other states, we have been attracting men of note. Of our contemporary leading men several came to New Hampshire. It would be invidious to try to catalogue the living, to mention those still with us. Ralph D. Pierce actually belonged to us. Winston Churchill is well identified with us and McDowell and Saint Gaudens had some New Hampshire background.

He Knew His Stuff

Gilbert H. Ayres of Tayler university, who has just been announced as winner of the $1,000 prize essay contest in chemistry, offered by the National Chemistry society, and open to all colleges and universities of the United States, told a good story on himself the morning he received the prize.

In the evening mail of the day before he received a notice from the Upland bank saying that his account was overdrawn 13 cents. On receiving his check he went to the bank at once, informed the cashier that he had come in to adjust his account and then, with the coolness of a millionaire, passed in his check for $1,000.—Indianapolis News.

Cancer Investigation

A German scientist, Dr. A. Wertzinski, has obtained results that seem to confirm the view that cancerous and tumorous growths are similar to embryonic tissue, in that they are simply masses of rapidly growing cells; but that they have "run wild" and escaped from the controls of normal growth. Doctor Wertzinski injected finely minced embryonic kidney and adrenal tissue under the skin of a guinea pig, which subsequently developed characteristic tumorous growths in two different parts of its body.

Anderson Debts to League Uncertain

paign," and the initials A. P. P. P. P. A., repeated several times, and a coupon marked with spaces for the specification of the amount of donations—$1, $2, $3, $5, $10, $25, $50 and $100, and a blank space in which a larger amount might be written

On the envelope, however, it was specified that the A. P. P. P. P. A. would be the beneficiary of the gifts. Here there were spaces for the name, address, church affiliation, date and for subscriptions ranging from 50 cents to $25 a month. The pledge is for five years, with the subscriber being given the right to cancel the subscription at the end of any year. The sum paid, it was specified, would bring to the subscriber a subscription to Fellowship Forum, a fraternal magazine published at Washington, in which Mr. Anderson's writings have appeared, and a monthly publication called Allied Protestant America, which has yet to be issued.

Not Compelled to Account.

Both the envelope and the coupon gave Mr. Anderson a free hand in the use of the money subscribed. The envelope reads:

"I will contribute as an outright gift (thus placing it beyond the reach of any hostile anti-Protestant official) to M. M Odell, Treasurer, to be used as William H. Anderson directs to enable him to promote an A. P. P. P. P. alliance the sum per month indicated by (X) my mark, payable every three months in advance."

Wants His Mortgage Paid.

The appeal to pay Mr. Anderson's debts appeared in the note which occupies the bottom and the reverse of the pledge coupon, which is separate from the envelope. This note read:

Note: The total amount due William H. Anderson is over $45,000, including interest. Of this he owes to others a little over $35,000, including interest (mortgage for $10,000 on his home, notes secured by his life insurance policies and his $2,000 of Liberty Loan bonds, and unsecured notes and accounts) which he cannot pay because he cannot get what is due him. If you have made a contribution, then hand this to somebody who can understand that it will be a good business investment for the dry Protestant forces to free this man from personal burdens so he can give undivided attention to the dry Protestant fight that is yet to come.

To repay the dry debt of honor to William H. Anderson.

In consideration of similar gifts from others and of the services rendered to the dry cause by the beneficiary, and independent of any contribution to the Anti-Saloon League or to the "American Prohibition Protestant Patriotic Protective Alliance," I will contribute as a gift to M. M. Odell, treasurer of the Anderson Defense and Vindication Fund, the one single lump sum indicated by my cross (X) mark on the other side thereof, payable within thirty days, unless otherwise specified, to be applied to repay William H. Anderson for all unpaid personal expense, whether represented by cash advanced or legal liability assumed which was incurred by him in building the Anti-Saloon League of New York into an agency effective enough to enable the dry Protestant constituency to defeat the wet anti-Protestant forces of the nation and in defending and vindicating his honor and integrity as its leader, including the sum equal to nine months' salary voted by the Anti-Saloon League State Board of Directors at the time of the acceptance of his resignation, relied upon by him for the support of his family while he was suffering nine months' unjust imprisonment for the sake of the cause, but secretly repudiated by the new management after he was locked up and helpless.

It is understood that after the repayment of the sums established by the books of the league or by action of a board which had knowledge of the facts as due him from the Anti Saloon League, and either denied or repudiated by a new and hostile management, and other expense of defense and vindication reasonably covered by action of the A. S. L. board at the time he was indicted, or else made necessary in whole or in part by the refusal of the later management to live up to the later obligations of the league, then the balance, if any, shall be used to reduce the sum which even an unfriendly A. S. L. management has publicly admitted as a valid legal obligation.

If, as and when such sum is so reduced the fund treasurer, though under no legal obligation to do so, will give due notice to the A. S. L. If there is a surplus, which is improbable, it will be turned into active, fearless, constructive work under the direction of William H. Anderson, for the protection and enforcement of the dry law.

Broken Rudder Cripples Liner.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Southampton, Sept. 24.—The disabled Canadian Pacific liner Empress of France lay at St. Helens Isle of Wight, today, while her 250 passengers were en route here aboard a tender. The liner, crippled by a broken rudder, was towed by tugs the last fifty miles to St. Helens at a rate of a mile and a half an hour.
